Nation Wonders What President Told Mr. Farley

Big Jim Knows Executive's Decision Concerning Third Term, But Pledges Secrecy; Convention Discussed

WASHINGTON, July 8—Clarification of the third term issue was still at least a week off as President Roosevelt returned to Washington today from an eventful Hyde Park week end.

As nearly as could be ascertained it appeared that delegates would be in their seats at the Chicago Democratic National Convention next week before the chief executive makes any public statement on his intention to run, or not to run, for re-election.

Mr. Roosevelt has made a decision on this historic question. He made the decision known Sunday to his 1932 and 1936 campaign manager, Postmaster General James A. Farley.

But neither he nor Farley took anyone else in their confidence. Farley, a candidate himself, went to Hyde Park for a show-down. He got it.

President Roosevelt's closest associates are unanimous in the opinion "the boss" will shatter all precedent and run for a third term—although all are careful to say they are guessing.

Farley Knows Answer

"I know the answer but I can't give it," said Farley at the end of a two-hour conference with the man he twice managed into the White House.

Whether the "answer" is satisfactory to Big Jim Farley is another question that apparently will not be clarified until the Chicago convention actually assembles to nominate the 1940 Democratic standard bearer.

Farley wouldn't discuss his own plans any more than he would the President's. He refused to say whether his own name would be placed in nomination, as earlier announced, and he refused to comment on seemingly well authenticated reports he plans to retire from both the cabinet and the Democratic national chairmanship to become president of the New York Yankees Baseball Club.

Observers got the impression that Mr. Roosevelt and the postmaster general had a full and frank political discussion in the seclusion of the Hyde Park study which cleared up many things, but failed to change the position of either man. From all surface appearances the long waited heart-to-heart talk ended in friendly fashion.

"The President was extremely frank with me and I was extremely frank with him," Farley told reporters. "I have a full knowledge of what he thinks and what he has in mind. What transpired remains between us. I don't intend to say anything more until after the convention assembles in Chicago. Any further comment will have to come from the President himself."

CROWD WATCHES AS YOUTH LEAPS FROM AIRPLANE

LOS ANGELES, July 8—A lover's quarrel was blamed today for the suicide leap from an airplane of William Elmer Green, Jr., 23-year-old aircraft company employee, as the plane soared over Los Angeles municipal airport.

The youth was identified by John Lorenz who told police that his daughter, Ruth, and Green had quarreled recently.

Young Green fought off attempts of the pilot to save him and jumped from the plane before the eyes of hundreds of persons at the airport.

HARVEST: NO COURT

Common Pleas Judge Meeker Terwilliger announced Monday that he had scheduled no cases for the next few weeks. Most of the jurors are farmers and are busy in the harvest fields, the judge pointed out.

NEW YORK, July 8—The British Broadcasting Corporation today charged that 60,000 German soldiers in civilian clothes have been infiltrated into Spain.

In a French language broadcast, intercepted in New York by CBS, the British announcer said the Franco-Spanish frontier has been closed by German authorities, adding:

"Sixty thousand German soldiers in plain clothes are already in Spain and others have arrived at the Spanish frontier."

Mrs. Ruby Miller, 35, police today questioned other relatives in their search for clues.

Poulson to Fight Sawyer For Committeeman Post

COLUMBUS, July 8—As Ohio delegates put their affairs in shape today to attend the Democratic national convention opening in Chicago next Monday, there were recurring rumors that efforts will be made to deny Charles Sawyer, Cincinnati, a second term as national committeeman from Ohio.

The capital heard that Francis W. Poulson, former chairman of the Democratic state executive committee and onetime campaign manager for Martin L. Davey, was endeavoring to pledge delegates to elect him as national committeeman to succeed Sawyer.

Sawyer is the nominal choice of the Ohio delegation for the presidential nomination, though actually the 60 delegates are committed solidly to re-nominate President Roosevelt, if he will accept. Sawyer also has announced he will seek reelection as national committeeman. Mrs. Mildred Jaster, Cleveland, is the Ohio national committee woman.

Should the President refuse renomination, it is problematical to which candidate for the presidency the Ohio delegation would turn. If the President should name a candidate he would like to have nominated instead of himself, it was expected most of Ohio's 52 votes would go to that aspirant.

Garner Favor Hinted

Some Garner sentiment was said to prevail in Ohio Democratic circles, but unless the President removes himself from consideration the Texan can count on little support from this state's delegation.

There will be 60 Ohio delegates to the Democratic convention, but they will have only 52 votes. Instead of electing eight delegates-at-large with a full vote, as the Republicans do, the Democrats chose 16, giving each only a half vote.

The Sawyer faction had the major voice in choosing the delegates, although Davey, the party (Continued on Page Two)

DIES' BACKERS READY TO OPEN HEADQUARTERS

WASHINGTON, July 8—Friends of Rep. Martin Dies of Texas today planned to open headquarters in Chicago to boom Dies for the Democratic nomination for vice-president.

Dies, chairman of the congressional committee investigating un-American activities, is now at his home in Orange, Texas.

A boom for Dies for the second place on the Democratic ticket was started last week. The response was so great in congressional circles in Washington that his supporters decided to open headquarters in Chicago within the next two or three days.

It still was not known in Washington whether Dies would run for the vice-presidential nomination,

DOCTOR'S DEATH PROBE GOES ON IN RUBBER CITY

AKRON, July 8—Failing in their efforts to learn the reason for the murder of Dr. Malcolm Dean Miller through questioning his wife and former secretary, Mrs. Ruby Miller, 35, police today questioned other relatives in their search for clues.

Mrs. Miller, who was in her husband's office when a swarthy, mustached gunman threatened to shoot the 65-year-old women's specialist, but fled before the fatal shots were fired, left People's Hospital where she had been taken with her dead husband.

Detective Inspector Verne E. Cross, who has been in charge of the investigation since the Friday night slaying, said he also planned to again question Mrs. Grace Carver, sister-in-law of Mrs. Miller, who was Dr. Miller's office attendant. She was on vacation in Tennessee with her husband when the slaying occurred.

Mrs. Miller, the doctor's second wife, was able to give Cross a complete description of the killer, but little of her account helped with progress in the investigation, Cross said.

He revealed that Dr. Miller had drawn a heavy frame revolver from his desk and cocked it before he fell to the floor with four bullets in his body. It was recalled that the doctor was a fire-arms collector and Cross said he probably obtained the gun in that manner.

266 BOYS, GIRLS FROM ISLE AREA ARRIVE IN U. S.

NEW YORK, July 8—The dreaded Nazi blitzkrieg on England today brought 266 British children to a safe American haven with the arrival of the Cunard White Star liner Samaria, the second vessel in 24 hours to bring young refugees into New York.

The Samaria docked as the 71 children who arrived on the Cunard Scythia yesterday were getting used to their new, bomb-free home.

Most of the children on both liners were those of wealthy parents and the vessels were met at the piers by a long row of sleek limousines.

On the Samaria 81 of the children traveled alone. The others were either accompanied by their parents or other relatives or under chaperonage.

They were calm, well-mannered little boys and girls and it seemed as though they looked on their trip as a holiday rather than a flight from war-ravaged Europe.

Germans Believe They Are Capable Of Defeating Empire Alone

BERLIN, July 8—Amid general expectations that Germany's promised blow against England is not far distant, Chancellor Hitler conferred with Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering and other key military advisers today.

Authoritative sources in Berlin, where Hitler has now transferred his headquarters, described the present moment as a lull before the storm.

Small crowds stood outside, watching officials come and go from Hitler's headquarters, anticipating the Fuehrer will quickly give the signal for his next move. Authentic quarters told International News Service:

"Hitler alone will decide when the moment is ripe for what is going to happen. Naturally he is in consultation with our friends, for which purpose Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano came here."

(A dispatch from Geneva reported that advices from Berlin said the "real object" of Ciano's visit concerned the new anti-British attitude of France, Italian anxiety over Soviet Russian policy in the Balkans and preparations for Italy's role in the expected Italo-German attack on England.)

SHANGHAI, July 8—A tense atmosphere prevailed in the International Settlement tonight following the release of sixteen armed Japanese policemen who had been arrested by United States marines within the settlement limits.

Japanese authorities apologized for the presence of the armed group in the settlement, asserting that the Nipponese gendarmes entered the area due to a misunderstanding.

However, there was an undercurrent of rumor in the foreign colony that the Japanese were extremely upset over the occurrence and while it could not be confirmed, there were reports that Japanese officials intended taking further action, possibly through diplomatic channels, over the matter.

It was understood that the Japanese police were not released until after the apology was received. Subsequently, there were reports that Japanese officials objected to the treatment accorded the arrested group.

WOMAN 'DISGRACED' BY ARRESTS ENDS HER LIFE

CINCINNATI, July 8—Believing herself disgraced because her son and son-in-law were in jail, Mrs. Mary Lawson, 45, today was believed by her daughter to have ended her life in the Ohio River.

The daughter, Mrs. Bertha Shaefer, told police her mother had threatened to end her life. Later authorities found a note on the stairway to the suspension bridge which said in part:

"I hate sin and all its ways. . . my family is condemned to die."

WASHINGTON, July 8—Announced Republican support assured senate approval of President Roosevelt's appointment of two Republicans to cabinet defense posts as opening of debate on the assignments today touched off verbal fireworks over the executive's foreign policy.

The administration foresaw its victory when Senate Republican Leader Charles L. McNary, 1940 vice presidential nominee, said that most Republican senators will vote favorably on the nominations of Henry L. Stimson as secretary of war and Col. Frank Knox as secretary of the navy.

Confirmation is not expected, however, until after several days of torrid talk aimed chiefly at the President's European war policy, and the scope of his military aid-to-the-allied program.

Empire's Force Pours Bombs On Reich's Bases In Several Areas

By International News Service

Intensified aerial warfare between Great Britain and Germany in apparent preparation for the expected Nazi invasion attempt brought an official British announcement today that seven more German planes had been destroyed.

The German craft were shot down during Sunday's raids which killed at least five British civilians. The British admitted that at least one and probably three British fighting planes are missing as a result of combats yesterday and during the night.

Official records in London said that Britain has taken a toll of nearly 2,500 German aircraft since the war began.

German raiders were reported to have taken a toll of several persons in a southwestern English town this morning. Far more important from a military standpoint, were the continuing raids against the British Mediterranean base of Malta.

Exchange Telegraph reported today that Italian war planes began heavy aerial attacks at the strategic base late yesterday afternoon. By 10 o'clock this morning, London time, the Italians were said to have lost five planes. The Malta raids occurred simultaneously with two air attacks by Italian flyers against Alexandria last night and this morning. British sources said little damage was caused, but that 11 persons had been killed in Malta.

NEW YORK, July 8—To curb any possibilities of sabotage to their country-wide communications system, the American Telephone and Telegraph Company has restricted admittance to operating rooms, a company spokesman said here today.

The spokesman said the company is "looking ahead" and is taking precautions now for any eventualities.

District offices have been advised to check carefully on visitors and the nature of their visits through company stations.

The Southwestern Bell Telephone Company at St. Louis recently revealed that it has formed a committee of general department heads to guard against "interruption of service or invasion of privacy" in telephonic communications as a national defense measure. The company also has restricted admittance to some of its buildings.

POSTOFFICE'S BUSINESS FOR FISCAL YEAR HIGH

Postal receipts for the fiscal year ending June 30 were $1,460-63 higher than those of the 1939 fiscal year. Postmaster Hulse Hays announced Monday that total receipts for the 1940 fiscal year were $37,826.85 while those for 1939 were $36,166.22.

Business in July is better than business at the same time in July last year, Postmaster Hays said, while total receipts for the calendar year are approximately the same as those at this time last year.

BRITISH CLAIM SEVEN PLANES SENT TO GROUND

Italians Centering Their Action On Malta; London Reports 11 Killed

...suits were obtained in the aerial bombardments of Malta and Alexandria. Only two of the attacking planes were lost, the Italians said.

Widespread attacks by British bombers on German bases in the Reich, Holland and France also were announced by the British air ministry.

Meanwhile, Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano was enroute to German-held areas of France, Belgium and Holland after a conference with Chancellor Hitler and German Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop.

Nature of Ciano's talks with Hitler and Von Ribbentrop was not divulged, but that they were important went without saying. It was believed the Germans may have outlined for Ciano, Hitler's final plans for invading England.

Blockade Affirmed

At the same time, an official German news agency dispatch charged that British warships are continuing their blockade of Martinique, French West Indian port, despite London's denial that such a blockade existed.

French naval forces at Martinique were reported expecting a British ultimatum to surrender.

Meanwhile, France warned Britain that any British ships or warplanes within 20 miles of the French coast would be fired on.

In addition, an official French communiqué stated that French planes had carried out a recent bombing attack on Gibraltar, British Mediterranean stronghold.

German press dispatches quoted the French admiralty as charging that more than 200 members of the crew of the French battle cruiser Dunkerque were killed by British planes which machine gunned the ship's bridge and lifeboats.

Romania's new Premier Ion Gurgu conferred with the Italian ambassador at Bucharest. It was believed they discussed Hungarian claims on Romania for return of Transylvania to Hungary.

At New Delhi, the working committee of the Indian nationalist congress adopted a resolution demanding immediate and complete independence for India.

LONDON, July 8.—Destruction of seven German planes yesterday was announced officially in London today following intensified German night air raids which killed at least five British civilians.

Still more British citizens were feared to have been killed by German bombs dropped on English coastal regions during the night.

It was believed several persons were killed in a raid on a southwestern English town this morning, where one shop and two houses were demolished and several other main street shops badly shattered.

A German plane also was sighted flying over southeast England. Anti-aircraft batteries and fighting planes drove a German raider to sea after lively exchanges of machinegun fire off the southeast coast shortly before noon. Residents of the area took to air raid shelters. Six bombs were dropped, but caused no casualties and damages were described as negligible.

Another German bomber was believed shot down by a British spitfire patrol while attempting to cross the southeast coast during the morning. The Nazi craft was last seen approaching the sea with smoke pouring from its tail.

Eschwege Airdrome Hit

An official communiqué said British planes carried out extensive daylight reconnaissance flights over Germany yesterday and successfully attacked the German airdrome at Eschwege.

Two British machines were reported missing.

Official records in London stated that Britain has taken a toll of nearly 2,500 German aircraft since the war began.

In one of yesterday's air battles, it was reported a squadron of British spitfires engaged a group of German Messerschmitts, shooting down three.

Two German bombers and a pursuit machine were shot down over the English channel coast and still another was shot down in flames after raiding southwestern England.

German bombs blasted homes and apartment buildings in a raid on a southwestern English town, where the five civilians were killed. Earlier several houses were demolished by bombs in the western section of the country, presumably near Liverpool.

Many persons were injured and several houses set on fire in northeastern England early this morning when German planes dropped incendiary and high explosive bombs in that area.

British advisors said minor casualties were inflicted by two raids on Malta, British Mediterranean base. One of the raiding planes,

FAKE REPORT OF DESTROYER LOSS SPURS U. S. MOVE

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Monitor stations of the Federal Communications Commission—established to detect identity of senders of fake radio messages—were being contacted by FCC Chairman James L. Fry today for a possible solution of the air wave hoax that made Americans believe a U. S. warship had been sunk by a German submarine.

As agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation also worked on the case, the Navy Department announced that it has double-checked the U. S. S. Barry, the 1,200-ton destroyer carrying about 125 officers and crew, and that the vessel is secure in a neutral Spanish port.

It was shortly before 2 p. m. yesterday that Mackay Radio picked up a wireless message stating that the Barry had been attacked by a German submarine 400 miles off the coast of Spain and was sinking.

It took the navy an anxious hour to determine the falsity of the message, but meanwhile there was feverish and anguished sabbath activity in the capital.

Secretary of State Hull telephoned the reported news to President Roosevelt at Hyde Park. Admiral Harold Stark, chief of naval operations, rushed to the navy department to take charge of the effort to contact the Barry.

presumably Italian, was reported shot down.

British bombers carried out attacks on widely separated targets including barges aboard Germany was believed preparing to send troops for the anticipated invasion of the British Isles.

British planes struck at barges in the Dutch Zwole-Katwijk Canal and bombed naval and air bases, shipbuilding plants and other German military objectives.

Authorities said the entrance to the Kiel Canal and seaplane bases at Norderny and Hornum were attacked by British planes, which also dropped explosives on a large armaments depot at Emden. German-occupied airdromes also were attacked.

The admiralty revealed that naval planes attacked the German-held Norwegian port of Bergen. A communiqué said:

"Oil tanks and an oil tanker were subjected to heavy dive-bombing attacks. They were set on fire. All our aircraft returned."

Another admiralty announcement said a single British submarine, the Snapper, torpedoed and presumably sank five German ships sailing in Nazi convoys off Norway.

MRS. GEORGE EITEL, 41, DIES AFTER OPERATION

Mrs. Addie L. Eitel, 41, wife of George T. Eitel, Circleville Township, died Saturday at 10:45 p. m. in Grant Hospital, Columbus, of complications that followed an operation. Mrs. Eitel was a native of Pickaway County, born November 9, 1898, a daughter of Gideon and Mary Drake Eccard. She married George T. Eitel on December 24, 1914.

Surviving are her husband; three sons, Walter T., George F. and Paul E. Eitel; two sisters, Mrs. George Grove and Mrs. L. E. Jones of Ashville, and three brothers, John, Turney and Walter Eccard, all of the Circleville community.

She was a member of Trinity Lutheran Church.

Funeral services will be conducted Tuesday at 2 p. m. in Trinity Lutheran Church, the Rev. G. L. Troutman officiating. Burial will be in Forest Cemetery by the Mader Funeral Service. Friends may call at the Eitel home after 3 p. m. Monday.

NATION WONDERS WHAT PRESIDENT TOLD MR. FARLEY

Wendell Wilkie, his associates predict the decision to run will be based solely on the ominous international situation.

Leaves For Chicago

But Farley, good natured and smiling as usual, wouldn't say. He parried a barrage of insistent questions for nearly half an hour before he finally took his leave to head back to Chicago and get things moving for next Monday's convention.

"I discussed with the President plans already perfected for the convention and detailed plans that must yet be completed," he said. "We talked about the platform and its size and the planks that must be adopted. We are going to make every effort to conduct a dignified convention without any by-plays or frivolities."

Mr. Roosevelt came back to the national capital today to devote the first half of the week to preparing still another demand on congress for national defense. Expected to complete the tremendous preparedness program, this additional request for planes, tanks and guns will run about five billion dollars in appropriations and authorizations.

Vice-President Garner, Speaker Bankhead, Senate Majority Leader Barkley and House Majority Leader Rayburn were waiting to discuss the matter with him.

OVEN USED BY BAKERY YEARS AGO DESTROYED

Last evidence of the Washington Bakery, which stood on West Main Street, was destroyed Monday when the oven, installed more than fifty years ago, was torn down. The oven, an old-fashioned inside type, originally burned wood and coke, but later gas was installed. Nearly 15,000 bricks were used in the construction of the ten by twelve structure.

SEES THRIFT RETURNING

TOLEDO—The European war will return thrift as an integral part of the American way of life, according to Joseph W. Frazer, president of Willys-Overland Motors, Inc. "National defense will cost money and we will have to pay for it," Frazer said. "For the last few years thrift has seemed to lose its respectability, but that day is fast drawing to a close. Our taxes have been high but they are bound to be higher. We are going to get back into the ways of thrift through sheer necessity. That will be a good thing for America..."

TRAGIC MISHAPS ON OHIO ROADS, CREEKS KILL 10

By International News Service

At least ten Ohioans lost their lives in accidents over the weekend, a survey showed today. Traffic claimed at least six victims, three men drowned and a boy smothered to death while playing in a sandpit.

Joseph Verenkovich, 55, a coal miner, waded into the Ohio River south of Wheeling and was drowned, and Olan Yoho, 21, of Proctor, W. Va., was drowned while swimming in a creek near Powhatan.

Eleven-year-old Jack W. Otter was buried alive in a Columbus commercial sandpit when an estimated 700 tons of sand slid upon him as he was playing. The boy's body was recovered four hours later.

Norman Morgan, 22, of Columbus, was killed and three other young persons injured when the car in which they were riding crashed into a bridge near Selma, in Clark County.

Mrs. Laura M. Hiner, 22, of Dayton, was killed near Ft. Wayne, Ind., in a head-on auto collision.

Hit by the wreckage of his automobile which was demolished by a passenger train, Joseph Smolinski, Jr., 32, of Cleveland, was fatally injured.

Smolinski's car stalled as it was crossing the New York Central tracks at Amherst and he jumped from the car as he heard a train approaching. While running away from the car, he was struck by the wreckage of the automobile.

Michael Novak, Jr., 28, was drowned when a 14-foot outboard motor boat overturned at nearby Rocky River.

Ashtabula County recorded its 11th traffic fatality of the year when the motorcycle of Clifford L. Bennett, 28-year-old newspaper distributor, skidded head-on into a truck.

Seven-year-old Harlan Abbott was killed when his bicycle collided with an auto a Leavittsburg, in Warren County.

Louis Grant Brighton, 66, South Charleston farmer, was injured fatally when struck by a car as he walked in the road near his home.

LONDON, July 8 — Britain's royal princesses — Elizabeth and Margaret Rose — emerged in a new role today, as expert warblers and tap dancers.

The young daughters of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth tap danced, sang and gave recitations with evacuee children from London's east side at a country village to raise money to provide comforts for the crews of British mine sweepers.

Under the eyes of the queen, they performed at a concert in the village school room.

Princess Elizabeth gave two solo tap dances and a recitation. Princess Margaret Rose tap danced and played the piano and also participated in several sketches in a ballet number called "An Apple for Teacher."

Shot in the stomach, Mallen was reported in critical condition in the Green Cross Hospital. Durso was shot in the left side and taken to the same hospital.

Three companions were with Durso when the latter was shot down. One of them, Ivan Hasselocher, a Brazilian whose father formerly was commercial counselor of the Brazilian embassy in Washington, was grazed by a bullet.

The other two, Francis E. Mallen, Jr., of Washington, and Parkman Clancy, Tacoma Park, Md., escaped injury.

Mallen was walking alone when a bullet struck him down near Mexico City's central postoffice.

Trend of the election will not become known until later today, when unofficial tabulation of the votes begins.

COUNTY SEAT MAN FINED IN CHILLICOTHE COURT

CHILLICOTHE, July 8 — Carmon Allen, Circleville, was fined $50 and costs by Mayor Harold H. Brown, Saturday, on charges of attempting to molest a twelve-year-old girl. His arrest was made Friday night after he had promised the girl large pay for caring for his children. According to police reports, when the girl returned to his automobile, accompanied by her father to whom she had gone for consent, he had driven away. The girl's father took the license number of the car and notified Police Chief Russell Poole, who called Circleville police.

Patrolmen Elmer Merriman and George Green arrested Allen immediately and held him for the Chillicothe police. Allen lived at 156 West Water Street.

MRS. GEORGE EITEL, 41, DIES AFTER OPERATION

Mrs. Addie L. Eitel, 41, wife of George T. Eitel, Circleville Township, died Saturday at 10:45 p. m. in Grant Hospital, Columbus, of complications that followed an operation. Mrs. Eitel was a native of Pickaway County, born November 9, 1898, a daughter of Gideon and Mary Drake Eccard. She married George T. Eitel on December 24, 1914.

Surviving are her husband; three sons, Walter T., George F. and Paul E. Eitel; two sisters, Mrs. George Grove and Mrs. L. E. Jones of Ashville, and three brothers, John, Turney and Walter Eccard, all of the Circleville community.

She was a member of Trinity Lutheran Church.

Funeral services will be conducted Tuesday at 2 p. m. in Trinity Lutheran Church, the Rev. G. L. Troutman officiating. Burial will be in Forest Cemetery by the Mader Funeral Service. Friends may call at the Eitel home after 3 p. m. Monday.

NATION WONDERS WHAT PRESIDENT TOLD MR. FARLEY

Wendell Willkie, his associates predict the decision to run will be based solely on the ominous international situation.

*****

Leaves For Chicago

But Farley, good natured and smiling as usual, wouldn't say. He parried a barrage of insistent questions for nearly half an hour before he finally took his leave to head back to Chicago and get things moving for next Monday's convention.

"I discussed with the President plans already perfected for the convention and detailed plans that must yet be completed," he said. "We talked about the platform and its size and the planks that must be adopted. We are going to make every effort to conduct a dignified convention without any by-plays or frivolities."

Mr. Roosevelt came back to the national capital today to devote the first half of the week to preparing still another demand on congress for national defense. Expected to complete the tremendous preparedness program, this additional request for planes, tanks and guns will run about five billion dollars in appropriations and authorizations.

Vice-President Garner, Speaker Bankhead, Senate Majority Leader Barkley and House Majority Leader Rayburn were waiting to discuss the matter with him.

OVEN USED BY BAKERY YEARS AGO DESTROYED

Last evidence of the Washington Bakery, which stood on West Main Street, was destroyed Monday when the oven, installed more than fifty years ago, was torn down. The oven, an old-fashioned inside type, originally burned wood and coke, but later gas was installed. Nearly 15,000 bricks were used in the construction of the ten by twelve structure.

SEES THRIFT RETURNING

TOLEDO—The European war will return thrift as an integral part of the American way of life, according to Joseph W. Frazer, president of Willys-Overland Motors, Inc. "National defense will cost money and we will have to pay for it," Frazer said. "For the last few years thrift has seemed to lose its respectability, but that day is fast drawing to a close. Our taxes have been high but they are bound to be higher. We are going to get back into the ways of thrift through sheer necessity. That will be a good thing for America . . ."

TRAGIC MISHAPS ON OHIO ROADS, CREEKS KILL 10

By International News Service

At least ten Ohioans lost their lives in accidents over the weekend, a survey showed today. Traffic claimed at least six victims, three men drowned and a boy smothered to death while playing in a sandpit.

Joseph Verenkovich, 55, a coal miner, waded into the Ohio River south of Wheeling and was drowned, and Olan Yoho, 21, of Proctor, W. Va., was drowned while swimming in a creek near Powhatan.

Eleven-year-old Jack W. Otter was buried alive in a Columbus commercial sandpit when an estimated 700 tons of sand slid upon him as he was playing. The boy's body was recovered four hours later.

Norman Morgan, 22, of Columbus, was killed and three other young persons injured when the car in which they were riding crashed into a bridge near Selma, in Clark County.

Mrs. Laura M. Hiner, 22, of Dayton, was killed near Ft. Wayne, Ind., in a head-on auto collision.

Hit by the wreckage of his automobile which was demolished by a passenger train, Joseph Smolinski, Jr., 32, of Cleveland, was fatally injured.

Smolinski's car stalled as it was crossing the New York Central tracks at Amherst and he jumped from the car as he heard a train approaching. While running away from the car, he was struck by the wreckage of the automobile.

Michael Novak, Jr., 28, was drowned when a 14-foot outboard motor boat overturned at nearby Rocky River.

Ashtabula County recorded its 11th traffic fatality of the year when the motorcycle of Clifford L. Bennett, 28-year-old newspaper distributor, skidded head-on into a truck.

Seven-year-old Harlan Abbott was killed when his bicycle collided with an auto a Leavittsburg, in Warren County.

Louis Grant Brighton, 66, South Charleston farmer, was injured fatally when struck by a car as he walked in the road near his home.

Limbach's successor as executive committee chairman, J. Freer Bittinger, Ashland, is not a delegate and may not even attend the convention, he said.

With Davey once more back in the driver's seat in party affairs, the party he plays at the national convention and his attitude with respect to selecting a new national committeeman, will be watched closely.

Although during his two terms as governor, Davey frequently clashed with the Roosevelt administration, he, along with the other Ohio delegates, is pledged to renominate the President.

PRINCESSES PERFORM FOR EVACUATED YOUNGSTERS

LONDON, July 8 — Britain's royal princesses — Elizabeth and Margaret Rose—emerged in a new role today, as expert warblers and tap dancers.

The young daughters of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth tap danced, sang and gave recitations with evacuee children from London's east side at a country village to raise money to provide comforts for the crews of British mine sweepers.

Under the eyes of the queen, they performed at a concert in the village school room.

Princess Elizabeth gave two solo tap dances and a recitation. Princess Margaret Rose tap danced and played the piano and also participated in several sketches in a ballet number called "An Apple for Teacher."

Georgetown University, Washington, D. C.

Shot in the stomach, Mallen was reported in critical condition in the Green Cross Hospital. Durso was shot in the left side and taken to the same hospital.

Three companions were with Durso when the latter was shot down. One of them, Ivan Hasselbacher, a Brazilian whose father formerly was commercial counselor of the Brazilian embassy in Washington, was grazed by a bullet.

The other two, Francis E. Maloney, Jr., of Washington, and Parkman Clancy, Tacoma Park, Md., escaped injury.

Mallen was walking alone when a bullet struck him down near Mexico City's central postoffice. Trend of the election will not become known until later today, when unofficial tabulation of the votes begins.

COUNTY SEAT MAN FINED IN CHILLICOTHE COURT

CHILLICOTHE, July 8 — Carmon Allen, Circleville, was fined $50 and costs by Mayor Harold H. Brown, Saturday, on charges of attempting to molest a twelve-year-old girl. His arrest was made Friday night after he had promised the girl large pay for caring for his children. According to police reports, when the girl returned to his automobile, accompanied by her father to whom she had gone for consent, he had driven away. The girl's father took the license number of the car and notified Police Chief Russell Poole, who called Circleville police.

Patrolmen Elmer Merriman and George Green arrested Allen immediately and held him for the Chillicothe police. Allen lived at 156 West Water Street.

Former Ashville, Lithopolis Banker And Milling Firm Official Dies

rites to be Tuesday

Other Notes Of News From Harrison Township Community

By S. D. Fridley Ashville, Phone 79

George Philip Teegardin, 91, a native of Ashville and active for many years in the village's community life, died Sunday at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Blanche T. Kraft, 855 Miller Avenue, Columbus. Mr. Teegardin would have observed his ninety-second birthday anniversary July 11.

Mr. Teegardin had served for several years as cashier of the Ashville Citizens' Bank and as a partner in the Ashville Grain Co.

Mr. Teegardin was active in the business and financial affairs of the village of Lithopolis, also, having been a grain wholesaler for more than 30 years and cashier of the Lithopolis bank for six years. He retired in 1920, removing to Columbus to make his home with his daughter.

Surviving in addition to Mrs. Kraft are a son, Curtis; two other daughters, Mrs. George P. Stoker and Mrs. J. C. Davison, and eight grandchildren.

The funeral will be Tuesday at 2 p. m. in the Evans mortuary, Columbus, with burial in the Lithopolis cemetery.

Among the week end visitors were Carlos Branden and wife of Chicago at the home of Jack Everett and wife; Harold and Mrs. Travis and Howard and Mrs. Parks of Napoleon, Travis to secure a birth certificate of Dr. Gardner and Mr. Parks to pay a visit to Dr. Rocky at his dental office being himself a dental student at O. S. U.; the Misses Lelah Glenn, Dixie Lee Vranes, Mrs. Jack Geyer and Mr. D. S. Wise were guests at the home of Luther and Mrs. Poling; Mrs. William Wallen with daughters Nancy and Ethel visited relatives in the Capital City over the week end.

Ashville—James Heath went to bed Saturday evening leaving his sample electric fence sales demonstrator on the porch of his home by the Kaiserman grocery. And Sunday morning it was not where he had left it. A rap on our door soon got Mr. Heath on the inside to relate his troubles. Together we agreed that Marshal Bob Walden would better be notified of the "theft". So Bob was got out of bed, too, and agreed to see what could be done about it. But when James arrived home there was his goods "looking at him". Mr. Kaiserman in closing his store for the night, noticed that the fence machine had been left unguarded on the Heath porch and kindly set the same inside his store for safe-

EMPLOYMENT ON UPGRADE, STATE BUREAU SHOWS

COLUMBUS, July 8—An increase of less than one percent in Ohio industrial employment for May is reported by Ohio State University's Bureau of Business Research, after studying the records of 6678 concerns.

A fractional decline in manufacturing employment was offset by gains of one percent for non-manufacturing and 18 percent for construction.

Total employment was seven percent above May of last year, manufacturing was up nine percent and non-manufacturing up two percent, but construction was two percent under the same month of 1939.

ty. So everybody's happy and that's fine.

Ashville—The Sturgell family reunion was held at the Scioto County fairgrounds in art hall Sunday, July 7 with a very large attendance. Present were relatives from the four states of Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, and Kentucky. Music was furnished by Columbus Davis and his farm hands from Radio Street at Ashland, Ky.

Postmaster Smith has kindly furnished us with a statement of the business transacted at the local postoffice for the last 12 months ending with June 30, 1940.

RADIO BRIEFS

Jimmy McHugh, one of the country's foremost popular song writers, has been signed to pen the tunes for the new Kay Kyser picture. Johnny Mercer will collaborate.

Frankie Masters' latest tune is "Say When." The bandleader composer of "Scatterbrain" and "Charming Little Faker," has just received it for Columbia.

Genevieve Rome, starred on "Johnny Presents," is set for a guest shot on new CBS sustainer, "We All Sing."

"Scatterbrain," new picture titled after the Frankie Masters song hit, will be a hillbilly musical. It's due for release soon.

Don Ameche and Claire Trevor devote a full program to the American Red Cross over the NBC-Red network Friday at 9 p. m.

Bing Crosby show has been renewed effective July 25. Program is to be heard at 8 instead of 9 p. m.

Elissa Landi and Phillips Holmes will have the leading roles in the new MBS series, "Wings Over America," which takes over the spot vacated by "Fifth Row Center."

Marilyn Erskine joins the cast of "My Son and I." Betty Garde is star of the series and two years ago Marilyn played Betty's daughter in the Broadway play, "The Primrose Path."

NEW ROAD MARKING UNIT

COLUMBUS—The Ohio State Highway Department has adopted a new, mechanized road marking unit capable of 10 to 12 times the output of hand methods. The device can mark 25 miles of road a day. Workers using the old time hand push road marker averaged only two miles.

Accuracy in marking is assured through a two way communication system between accompanying truck and the painter.

SAND KILLS BOY PLAYING IN PIT; FRIENDS WATCH

COLUMBUS, July 8—Buried alive when an estimated 700 tons of sand slid in on him as he played in a commercial sand pit, 11-year-old Jack W. Otter was dead today.

Witnesses said Jack had been sliding from the top of a 25,000-ton, 100-foot high pile of sand at the American Aggregate Corp. plant on Columbus' south side into an adjacent pit. Twice he climbed from the pit without difficulty, but the third time he attempted to clamber out the sand slide started.

Frantically the boy cried for help, but his two companions were unable to stem the flow or pull him from the pit. They summoned a company workman, who called police and firemen. The boy's body, still upright and with arms upraised, was recovered four hours later.

BOMBSHELL! That's his name for it. A splinter of mahogany, a bit of fabric, varnish...why, it's nothing but a shell with a motor. But when Clinton Ferguson clamps down the throttle of that motor, you've got the fastest combination in outboarding today. Speed? More than that. Speed plus—plus one man's uncanny ability to wheedle and squeeze just a few extra miles per hour out of four cylinders and a propeller. Yes, it's the extras that win—even in cigarettes.

LEAN, WIRY, 135 pounds of nerve and driving skill. Hunched in that tiny pit—one hand on the wheel, the other on the throttle—he roars across the surface in a frothing skid against time. Half in, half out of the water, Clinton Ferguson never lets up. Turns? He takes them wide open...throws himself around...with a daring equaled only by the extra skill of his steering hand. Boats, drivers—cigarettes—it's the extras that set them apart...like the extra mildness of Camels.

By S. D. Fridley Ashville, Phone 79

George Philip Teggardin, 91, a native of Ashville and active for many years in the village's community life, died Sunday at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Blanche T. Kraft, 855 Miller Avenue, Columbus. Mr. Teggardin would have observed his ninety-second birthday anniversary July 11.

Mr. Teggardin had served for several years as cashier of the Ashville Citizens' Bank and as a partner in the Ashville Grain Co. Mr. Teggardin was active in the business and financial affairs of the village of Lithopolis, also, having been a grain wholesaler for more than 30 years and cashier of the Lithopolis bank for six years. He retired in 1920, removing to Columbus to make his home with his daughter.

Surviving in addition to Mrs. Kraft are a son, Curtis; two other daughters, Mrs. George P. Stoker and Mrs. J. C. Davison, and eight grandchildren.

The funeral will be Tuesday at 2 p. m. in the Evans mortuary, Columbus, with burial in the Lithopolis cemetery.

Ashville—Among the week end visitors were Carlos Branden and wife of Chicago at the home of Jack Everett and wife; Harold and Mrs. Travis and Howard and Mrs. Parks of Napoleon, Travis to secure a birth certificate of Dr. Gardner and Mr. Parks to pay a visit to Dr. Rocky at his dental office being himself a dental student at O. S. U.; the Misses Lelah Glenn, Dixie Lee Vranes, Mrs. Jack Geyer and Mr. D. S. Wise were guests at the home of Luther and Mrs. Poling; Mrs. William Wallen with daughters Nancy and Ethel visited relatives in the Capital City over the week end.

Ashville—James Heath went to bed Saturday evening leaving his sample electric fence sales demonstrator on the porch of his home by the Kalserman grocery. And Sunday morning it was not where he had left it. A rap on our door soon got Mr. Heath on the inside to relate his troubles. Together we agreed that Marshal Bob Walden would better be notified of the "theft". So Bob was got out of bed, too, and agreed to see what could be done about it. But when James arrived home there was his goods "looking at him". Mr. Kalserman in closing his store for the night, noticed that the fence machine had been left unguarded on the Heath porch and kindly set the same inside his store for safe-

EMPLOYMENT ON UPGRADE, STATE BUREAU SHOWS

COLUMBUS, July 8—An increase of less than one percent in Ohio industrial employment for May is reported by Ohio State University's Bureau of Business Research, after studying the records of 6678 concerns.

A fractional decline in manufacturing employment was offset by gains of one percent for non-manufacturing and 18 percent for construction.

Total employment was seven percent above May of last year, manufacturing was up nine percent and non-manufacturing up two percent, but construction was two percent under the same month of 1939.

NEW BATON

When Andre Kostelanetz visits San Francisco this summer during his concert tour, he'll receive a new baton with the note, "For use only when you conduct 'Take Me Out to the Ball Game.'" The baton is being readied by fans of the San Francisco Seals baseball team and is carved from a bat that was cracked by Joe DiMaggio when he was a member of Seals.

JINNY ERWIN

Jinny Erwin, one of Bing Crosby's Music Males, served a radio apprenticeship of just one day! She was going to Southern California U. when offered a chance to audition for an air trio, "Three Shades in Blue," headed by Dottie Messmer. She took it, was selected and next day went to work on "Hollywood Hotel," one of the top shows on the air.

STAR-TEACHER

Virginia Payne is teaching again—but this time, on the installment plan. The star of "Ma Perkins" and "Carters of Elm Street," a former instructor at the Schuster-Martin School of Drama in Cincinnati, is booked for a group of guest-lecture appearances at summer college classes within commuting distance of her Chicago radio headquarters.

RADIO BRIEFS

Jimmy McHugh, one of the country's foremost popular song writers, has been signed to pen the tunes for the new Kay Kyser picture. Johnny Mercer will collaborate.

Frankie Masters' latest tune is "Say When." The bandleader composer of "Scatterbrain" and "Charming Little Faker," has just received it for Columbia.

Genevieve Rome, starred on "Johnny Presents," is set for a guest shot on new CBS sustainer, "We All Sing."

"Scatterbrain," new picture titled after the Frankie Masters song hit, will be a hillbilly musical. It's due for release soon.

Don Ameche and Claire Trevor devote a full program to the American Red Cross over the NBC-Red network Friday at 9 p. m.

Bing Crosby show has been renewed effective July 25. Program is to be heard at 8 instead of 9 p. m.

Elissa Landi and Phillips Holmes will have the leading roles in the new MBS series, "Wings Over America," which takes over the spot vacated by "Fifth Row Center."

Marilyn Erskine joins the cast of "My Son and I." Betty Garde is star of the series and two years ago Marilyn played Betty's daughter in the Broadway play, "The Primrose Path."

CHARLES WEIDINGER TO ACCEPT ST. LOUIS JOB

Charles Weidinger, employed for nine years at Mack's Shoe store, 113 East Main Street, will go to St. Louis, August 1, where he will be employed by the Roberts, Johnson and Rand Shoe Company. Mr. Weidinger will be in the house sample sales rooms until the first of the year, when he will be sent on the road as a salesman.

His place at Mack's store will be filled by Eugene Barthelmas, Elm Avenue.

NEW ROAD MARKING UNIT

COLUMBUS—The Ohio State Highway Department has adopted a new, mechanized road marking unit capable of 10 to 12 times the output of hand methods. The device can mark 25 miles of road a day. Workers using the old time hand push road marker averaged only two miles.

Accuracy in marking is assured through a two way communication system between accompanying truck and the painter.

SAND KILLS BOY PLAYING IN PIT; FRIENDS WATCH

COLUMBUS, July 8—Buried alive when an estimated 700 tons of sand slid in on him as he played in a commercial sand pit, 11-year-old Jack W. Otter was dead today.

Witnesses said Jack had been sliding from the top of a 25,000-ton, 100-foot high pile of sand at the American Aggregate Corp. plant on Columbus' south side into an adjacent pit. Twice he climbed from the pit without difficulty, but the third time he attempted to clamber out the sand slide started.

Frantically the boy cried for help, but his two companions were unable to stem the flow or pull him from the pit. They summoned a company workman, who called police and firemen. The boy's body, still upright and with arms upraised, was recovered four hours later.

EXTRA SKILL AND EXTRA DARING MADE CLINTON FERGUSON AMERICA'S NO.1 OUTBOARD CHAMPION

BOMBHELL! That's his name for it. A splinter of mahogany, a bit of fabric, varnish...why, it's nothing but a shell with a motor. But when Clinton Ferguson clamps down the throttle of that motor, you've got the fastest combination in outboating today. Speed? More than that. Speed plus—plus one man's uncanny ability to wheedle and squeeze just a few extra miles per hour out of four cylinders and a propeller. Yes, it's the extras that win—even in cigarettes.

LEAN, WIRY, 135 pounds of nerve and driving skill. Hunched in that tiny pit—one hand on the wheel, the other on the throttle—he roars across the surface in a frothing skid against time. Half in, half out of the water, Clinton Ferguson never lets up. Turns? He takes them wide open...throws himself around...with a daring equaled only by the extra skill of his steering hand. Boats, drivers—cigarettes—it's the extras that set them apart...like the extra mildness of Camels.

IMPERILLED FRONTIERS

ONE of the questions that Americans will have to answer definitely pretty soon is what we are going to do with the Philippines. Our public men haven't been saying much about that lately, but have been doing a lot of thinking.

According to the independence pledge they asked for, the Filipinos are to be free in five years. Uncle Sam has agreed, in a quiet and friendly way, to give them back their rich and beautiful islands, with no mortgage on them and with all the improvements that our benevolent government has provided. It is probably the most generous arrangement ever made in such a case, in a world and a time when nations are hungry for land and crazy for conquest.

But with Japan's mouth watering for those islands, and the Filipinos themselves afraid of being gobbled up and therefore inclined to hedge on their independence plan, is the United States really going to let the islands go? The whole business seems to be up in the air, awaiting a clearing of the situation in the Far East.

As a sporting problem, we do not want to let the Filipinos down. And as a practical problem in international relations, we do not want to add strength to the growing Japanese Empire by virtually giving it such a rich property. But neither do we want war with Japan. And with the European peril coming closer to our shores, there is a present tendency to tighten our lines, to let the outer fringes of empire go if necessary, and establish our eastern and western frontiers perhaps at Bermuda (which we might acquire from Britain) and Hawaii.

ALL-AMERICAN AIR ROUTES

THE first week of July finds Pan American Airways increasing service on all main lines between North and South America by more than 50 percent. The most striking development in the greatly expanded service is the first non-stop passenger, mail and express line, through the substratosphere, between Miami, Florida, and Barranquilla, Colombia, which go 1,200 miles in six hours.

At Barranquilla, passengers will make connections with planes for many other points, including through flights three times a week to Buenos Aires. A total of 150,000 route-miles a month will be added to the flying schedules now in force.

Such expansion has more than one good result. It means more business and travel between points formerly considered remote and inaccessible. We hope it will mean, also, better understanding among

WILLKIE-McNARY TICKET

WASHINGTON — To say that the Willkie-McNary ticket worried Democratic chiefs is to put it mildly. The real fact is that they are scared stiff.

Not only are they fearful of the campaigning effectiveness of the powerful GOP combination, but they are even more disturbed by their own state of disorganization.

Because of the serious rift between Jim Farley and the New Dealers, the Democratic National Committee hasn't functioned for months. Whatever battles were waged for the Democratic party originated from outside the Committee. All of the anti-Willkie-McNary blasts in the Senate and House came from independent Democrats.

Meanwhile every GOP fusillade on Capitol Hill has behind it the rejuvenated and fast-clicking Republican National Committee.

Another thing that alarms insiders is the effect of the President's strong pro-Ally policy on large blocs of voters. German, Italian and certain Irish elements are hostile, and fairly sure to vote Republican. Similarly, John L. Lewis vendetta is certain to cost votes.

Lewis speaks for only a minority of the CIO. Not one important union in the organization has endorsed his stand. However, he has destroyed the effectiveness of Labor's Non-partisan League as a campaign force, and in 1935 this was an important factor in several key industrial centers.

All in all, it looks like very stormy weather for the Democrats in November.

LOVES HOT AIR

Summer heat has come to Washington, but the President's only air-conditioning method is to take off his coat and hang it over the back of a chair.

The executive offices of the White House are air-conditioned, but the President will have none of it in his office. He keeps the vents turned off and opens the French doors looking out on the rose gardens and the South grounds. This, and the coat removal, are enough for him.

In the White House proper, separate air-cooling units have been established in the various rooms. (This was preferred to air-conditioning, so as to avoid tearing out walls to introduce new vents.) But the President at first declined to have even a cooling unit in his rooms.

Finally he was persuaded to accept it, with the understanding that it would not be turned on when he was there.

The same is true of the Presidential yacht, Potomac. Air-conditioning equipment has just been installed throughout the boat, but the President insists that it be turned off in his room.

NOTE—The same preference for nature's hot air is expressed by Cordell Hull and Sumner Welles in the State Department. Their rooms are the only offices the peoples of this hemisphere. Good will without understanding is hard to make effective.

WORLD AT A GLANCE

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

BURTON K. WHEELER, Montana's senator, unquestionably is President Roosevelt's most formidable opponent in public life today.

Senator Bennett Champ Clark of Missouri is pretty good. He has plenty of fire, but it requires a little kindling to get it going. The Montana solon simply explodes. And when he does, that explosion scatters fragments all around.

Champ is a more finished orator than Burt is. The latter doesn't depend much on elocution. He's devastating less on account of the way in which he says things than by virtue of the things he says.

Of course, there are Republicans who are emphatically anti-Roosevelt as either Burt or Champ. However, they're somewhat discounted by the fact that they're supposed to be of the administration's opposition party. Very few, if any of them, have Burt's gift of fireworks, either.

BURT'S SINCERITY

Burt Wheeler's sincerity is something awful. I wouldn't say that there aren't other politicians who are as sincere as he is, but it would be hard to find another one who has proved it as he has.

Out in the mining country, in "L.W.W." days, some "Wobblies" were due to be tried on charges of dynamiting, assassinations and miscellaneous other anarchistic crimes. They were so generally hated that they scarcely could find a lawyer to defend them in Montana's courts. Risking his future career and maybe his personal safety, right then, Burt had the courage to take on the job and handled it well.

Montana unexpectedly recognized his nerve, chose him for office and presently he landed in Washington as a Democratic senator.

NEVER A CONSERVATIVE

Senators have a tendency to turn conservative, but Burt Wheeler didn't. The Democrats didn't prove to be as liberal as he'd hoped, but he couldn't see that the Republicans were much better.

At that juncture the elder Senator Robert M. LaFollette was running for president on the liberally independent Progressive ticket. He offered Burt second place on his ballot. It looked like the sacrifice of a senatorship for a sure licking. Nevertheless, Wheeler had the intestinal fortitude to accept. He was Progressively licked, as expected, but unexpectedly, Montana, still admiring him, kept him on as a Democratic senator.

I don't know just how far his state stood by him on purely personal grounds or how far it was recognition of him as a true-blue democrat (little "d").

Anyway the other day, he seems to have begun to suspect that the Roosevelt administration contemplates participation in the current world conflict in some fashion not entirely "short of war."

NO WAR FOR WHEELER

Thereupon, he announced that, if the Democratic party's a "war party" he no longer belongs to it.

It was quite an announcement, considering that Burt's a candidate for senatorial re-election, on the Democratic ticket, this very year. If he wins he'll win as a Democratic outlaw (administratively speaking) and normally that's a hard stunt. But Burt's used to it.

However, that isn't all. Wheeler seems to have reached the conclusion, not only that the administration Democratic party's a war party.

He accuses it of having turned conservative. When President Roosevelt named Henry J. Stimson and Frank Knox, respectively, for his cabinet posts of war and the navy, Burt's story is that F.D.R. chose the two most conservative Republicans he could hit on.

So the administration, says Wheeler, not only is pro-war; it's economically reactionary. Burton K. has been Democratically talked about presidentially. He won't be nominated. Nevertheless, he's prominent, and will be during the coming campaign.

DIET AND HEALTH

Diet Seen As Vital Help in Stone Cases

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

● "IS THERE ANY method of dissolving kidney stones and gallstones without an operation?"

This age-old inquiry, which is repeated by thousands of human beings a year, has always heretofore been answered by doctors with a contemptuous "No." Lately, however, there seems to be a change of mind taking place.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

The relation of diet to kidney stones is very suggestive. Certain geographical areas have long been known as stone areas—lower Egypt, India and in this country Southern Florida and Southern California. The tendency in these regions is to eat a vegetable diet and to spare meats and fats, cutting off many vitamins. Higgins has produced stones in the kidneys experimentally in rats on a diet deficient in Vitamin A.

Statistics Show Progress

In countries where education in nutrition has received attention, it can be shown statistically that there is a marked reduction in the incidence of bladder stone. The figures of Thompson in England for the last two decades of the nineteenth century, as contrasted with those of July from 1915 to 1931 show that there was only a fourth as many cases seen in the later periods. Desnos and Minet have shown the same thing in France. In Russia, on the contrary, where standards of living are low, the incidence of bladder stone in children is still high.

Twenty-one patients are reported from a large American clinic, who had "complete solution" of their kidney stones after being put on a course of treatment which included clearing up any infection in the kidneys, and maintaining an acid-ash diet with a high Vitamin

A content. The diet prescribed for those who have had surgical removal of stones has prevented recurrence. The acid-ash diet prevents the precipitation in the kidney pelvis of alkaline salts from which stones are formed. An acid-ash diet contains bread, corn, eggs, fish, meat, oatmeal and prunes.

The underweight person is thin for the simple reason that he does not know the meaning of the word appetite. He has to work just as hard to eat without an appetite as the overweight has to work not to eat with an appetite. Note that these vacation diets for underweight begin with an appetizer—fruit or thin soup, which here has its place in the dietary if anywhere.

Breakfast: Grapefruit; oatmeal with cream and sugar; hot biscuits with honey and butter; glass milk, ½ cream.
Mid-morning: Cottage cheese; toast.
Lunch: Bouillon; creamed chicken on toast; endive salad with French dressing; chocolate custard with whipped cream; 2 whole wheat muffins with butter; glass milk.

Mid-afternoon: Glass ½ milk and ½ cream.
Dinner: Two poached eggs on mashed potatoes; buttered lima beans; lettuce salad with dressing; entire wheat bread with butter; apple tart; coffee with cream.
Evening: Egg nog.
Approximate value—4,000 calories.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents, or any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

Looking Back in Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO

Memories of boyhood days in Circleville were discussed at a stag party at the Pickaway County Club given in honor of three visitors, chums of former years, Earl Warner of Detroit, Mich., Harry McMahon of Houston, Tex., and Lutz May of Clarksburg, W. Va. Hosts at the frog supper served at midnight were George Littleton, John Boggs, Dr. Gay Hitler, Dr. H. D. Jackson, L. M. Mader, Glenn Nickerson, George P. Foresman and R. R. Bales.

Indications were that wheat would bring not over 60 cents per bushel when the new crop was offered to milling companies of Circleville and Pickaway County.

Miss Eleanor Ryan, Miss Marian Hitler and Miss Isabelle Ritt left for New York City from where they were to sail on the German liner, Hamburg, for a European tour.

SYNOPSIS

LINDA AVERY, receptionist at a New York models' agency, starts to rebuild her romance with RONALD STAFFORD, her childhood sweetheart, who has "swung his way to fame on a trumpet," but SARAH MARKLEY, wealthy glamor girl, is trying to capture Ronald for herself. Meanwhile ROBERT BARTON, young engineer, strikes up a friendship with Linda. He introduces her to TERRY ADAMS, publicity man, and Terry's sweetheart, CAROLINE PICKARD, who has been unable to find work.

YESTERDAY: Robert tells Linda the woman visiting him is Mina Nevins, a famous actress now growing old. She had been engaged to Robert's uncle, but since his death has tried to force herself on Robert. She discovers Linda and Robert together on the girl's balcony and tells Linda, "I'll know you when we meet again." Next day Linda is to meet Ronnie for dinner.

CHAPTER NINE

LINDA FOUND Ronnie waiting for her in the Iridium room. The music was low and gentle, gay and inobtrusive. People looked happy. Mostly they were in two's. A man and a girl, a man and a girl. Ronnie looked tired, but his eyes lighted with swift joy when she came toward him.

"You're the only nice thing about a devilish day," he said. "Linda, you're stunning!"

Then he forgot her clothes and studied her eyes.

"Still love me, my sweet?"

She nodded. "No decrease at all. Why?"

"Enough to marry me tonight, tomorrow, soon?"

This was what she had wanted him to say, but now that she heard the words she was afraid. There was not the assurance and strength in Ronnie's voice that should be there. Still . . . he was tired. His eyes were rimmed red, his honesty and his face was serious. Yet she was aware of some other influence.

She glanced down at the table and noticed a small gold vanity case. It contained the initials "S. M." Sarah Markley. So Sarah had been here with Ronnie until a few minutes ago. All of the time that she had waited for the telephone to ring, he had been chatting with Sarah. Maybe it wasn't his fault, maybe it was. She didn't try to reason it out. She said instead: "Sarah didn't give you much time to call me, did she?"

The gray eyes twinkled and Ronnie's laughter was wholehearted. Finally she joined him in it. "But she was here," she insisted. "And there I sat waiting for a ring, Ronnie, if I were still ten I'd look your way."

He sobered and the weary look came back. "Wouldn't it be swell to be ten again? Linda, how do people get in such complications?" She waited while the waiter put a tall lemonade in front of her. She sipped it slowly, then said: "Is that the matter, Ronnie?"

He nodded ruefully. "Sarah's a good kid, but she doesn't know you can't grab off men like you do bracelets or furs. Nobody ever told her, and why she should decide to add my scalp is beyond my limited reasoning. But she's been proposing and, golly, I never had to say 'no' to a girl before."

"But you said it?" Her eyes danced with laughter. So it was Sarah who was the pursuer. Life was still a smooth road. "In every way I know, but she's giving me time. Linda, I always intended to marry you a wway, when I got around to it, so let's make it soon." His eyes lost their quizzical look. "I love you, darling. It isn't news to you—but I do."

The orchestra was going away, following a melody of song out of the world, trailing it across bright stars and shining meadows. Voices were a little lower as "ough the people in the room realized that time was hurrying and they had so much to say.

Ronnie was asking her to marry him just as she had hoped he would ever since she rode a bicycle at his side down the Virginia lanes, falling off now and then because the sandy-haired occupant of the other wheel went so fast. But he was using her as an escape from another girl. And maybe all of this would retard his career, and he would remember, years later, that if he had been patient his name could have stayed in bright lights. Oh, this was idiotic. He had asked her to marry him and Mr. Markley was a keen enough showman not to let his daughter influence him. Still—

"Let's go riding in the park," Ronnie was saying, pulling a bill from his pocket and leaving it on the table. "The atmosphere here isn't conducive to assent, is it?" They found a hack, a horse-drawn, at the square across from the Plaza, and Ronnie told the driver to go through the park for an hour. There was no greenness in the land. Trees held back arms high and the ground was sodden. But somewhere a troubadour played a song of spring and the music floated down the paths.

"Well?" Ronnie asked, and kissed her.

Linda drew away. If he did that again her heart would crumble, her head would forget to send out dignified reactions, the years' waiting would be over. She loved him and he loved her, only—there was the Avery pride. When Ronnie put Sarah in her place, unmarried, love would have a better chance to succeed. Even now, though, she wondered at her own hesitation. She was afraid and didn't know why. Afraid for herself, afraid for Ronnie whom she adored.

IMPERILLED FRONTIERS

ONE of the questions that Americans will have to answer definitely pretty soon is what we are going to do with the Philippines. Our public men haven't been saying much about that lately, but have been doing a lot of thinking.

According to the independence pledge they asked for, the Filipinos are to be free in five years. Uncle Sam has agreed, in a quiet and friendly way, to give them back their rich and beautiful islands, with no mortgage on them and with all the improvements that our benevolent government has provided. It is probably the most generous arrangement ever made in such a case, in a world and a time when nations are hungry for land and crazy for conquest.

But with Japan's mouth watering for those islands, and the Filipinos themselves afraid of being gobbled up and therefore inclined to hedge on their independence plan, is the United States really going to let the islands go? The whole business seems to be up in the air, awaiting a clearing of the situation in the Far East.

As a sporting problem, we do not want to let the Filipinos down. And as a practical problem in international relations, we do not want to add strength to the growing Japanese Empire by virtually giving it such a rich property. But neither do we want war with Japan. And with the European peril coming closer to our shores, there is a present tendency to tighten our lines, to let the outer fringes of empire go if necessary, and establish our eastern and western frontiers perhaps at Bermuda (which we might acquire from Britain) and Hawaii.

ALL-AMERICAN AIR ROUTES

THE first week of July finds Pan American Airways increasing service on all main lines between North and South America by more than 50 percent. The most striking development in the greatly expanded service is the first non-stop passenger, mail and express line, through the stratosphere, between Miami, Florida, and Barranquilla, Colombia, which go 1,200 miles in six hours.

At Barranquilla, passengers will make connections with planes for many other points, including through flights three times a week to Buenos Aires. A total of 150,000 route-miles a month will be added to the flying schedules now in force.

Such expansion has more than one good result. It means more business and travel between points formerly considered remote and inaccessible. We hope it will mean, also, better understanding among

WILLKIE-McNARY TICKET

WASHINGTON — To say that the Willkie-McNary ticket worried Democratic chiefs is to put it mildly. The real fact is that they are scared stiff.

Not only are they fearful of the campaigning effectiveness of the powerful GOP combination, but they are even more disturbed by their own state of disorganization.

Because of the serious rift between Jim Farley and the New Dealers, the Democratic National Committee hasn't functioned for months. Whatever battles were waged for the Democratic party originated from outside the Committee. All of the anti-Willkie-McNary blasts in the Senate and House came from independent Democrats.

Meanwhile every GOP fusillade on Capitol Hill has behind it the rejuvenated and fast-clicking Republican National Committee.

Another thing that alarms insiders is the effect of the President's strong pro-Ally policy on large blocs of voters. German, Italian and certain Irish elements are hostile, and fairly sure to vote Republican. Similarly, John L. Lewis vendetta is certain to cost votes.

Lewis speaks for only a minority of the CIO. Not one important union in the organization has endorsed his stand. However, he has destroyed the effectiveness of Labor's Non-partisan League as a campaign force, and in 1935 this was an important factor in several key industrial centers.

All in all, it looks like very stormy weather for the Democrats in November.

LOVES HOT AIR

Summer heat has come to Washington, but the President's only air-conditioning method is to take off his coat and hang it over the back of a chair.

The executive offices of the White House are air-conditioned, but the President will have none of it in his office. He keeps the vents turned off and opens the French doors looking out on the rose gardens and the South grounds. This, and the coat removal, are enough for him.

In the White House proper, separate air-cooling units have been established in the various rooms. (This was preferred to air-conditioning, so as to avoid tearing out walls to introduce new vents.) But the President at first declined to have even a cooling unit in his rooms.

Finally he was persuaded to accept it, with the understanding that it would not be turned on when he was there.

The same is true of the Presidential yacht, Potomac. Air-conditioning equipment has just been installed throughout the boat, but the President insists that it be turned off in his room.

NOTE—The same preference for nature's hot air is expressed by Cordell Hull and Sumner Welles in the State Department. Their rooms are the only offices

WORLD AT A GLANCE

—By— Charles P. Stewart

BURTON K. WHEELER, Montana's senator, unquestionably is President Roosevelt's most formidable opponent in public life today.

Senator Bennett Champ Clark of Missouri is pretty good. He has plenty of fire, but it requires a little kindling to get it going. The Montana solon simply explodes. And when he does, that explosion scatters fragments all around.

Champ is a more finished orator than Burt is. The latter doesn't depend much on elocution. He's devastating less on account of the way in which he says things than by virtue of the things he says.

Of course, there are Republicans who are emphatically as anti-Roosevelt as either Burt or Champ. However, they're somewhat discounted by the fact that they're supposed to be of the administration's opposition party. Very few, if any of them, have Burt's gift of fireworks, either.

BURT'S SINCERITY
Burt Wheeler's sincerity is something awful.

I wouldn't say that there aren't other politicians who are as sincere as he is, but it would be hard to find another one who has proved it as he has.

crimes. They were so generally hated that they scarcely could find a lawyer to defend them in Montana's courts. Raising his future career and maybe his personal safety, right then, Burt had the courage to take on the job and handled it well.

Montana unexpectedly recognized his nerve, chose him for office and presently he landed in Washington as a Democratic senator.

NEVER A CONSERVATIVE
Senators have a tendency to turn conservative, but Burt Wheeler didn't. The Democrats didn't prove to be as liberal as he'd hoped, but he couldn't see that the Republicans were much better.

At that juncture the elder Senator Robert M. LaFollette was running for president on the liberally independent Progressive ticket. He offered Burt second place on his ballot. It looked like the sacrifice of a senatorship for a sure licking. Nevertheless, Wheeler had the intestinal fortitude to accept. He was Progressively licked, as expected, but unexpectedly, Montana, still admiring him, kept him on as a Democratic senator.

I don't know just how far his state stood by him on purely personal grounds or how far it was recognition of him as a true-blue democrat (little "d"). Anyway, the other day, he seems to have begun to suspect that the Roosevelt administration contemplates participation in the current world conflict in some fashion not entirely "short of war."

NO WAR FOR WHEELER

Thereupon, he announced that, if the Democratic party's a "war party" he no longer belongs to it.

It was quite an announcement, considering that Burt's a candidate for senatorial re-election, on the Democratic ticket, this very year. If he wins he'll win as a Democratic outlaw (administratively speaking) and normally that's a hard stunt. But Burt's used to it.

However, that isn't all. Wheeler seems to have reached the conclusion, not only that the administration Democratic party's a war party.

He accuses it of having turned conservative. When President Roosevelt named Henry J. Stimson and Frank Knox, respectively, for his cabinet posts of war and the navy, Burt's story is that F.D.R. chose the two most conservative Republicans he could hit on.

So the administration, says Wheeler, not only is pro-war; it's economically reactionary. Burton K. has been Democratically talked about presidentially. He won't be nominated. Nevertheless, he's prominent, and will be during the coming campaign.

DIET AND HEALTH

Diet Seen As Vital Help in Stone Cases

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

● "IS THERE ANY method of dissolving kidney stones and gallstones without an operation?"

This age-old inquiry, which is repeated by thousands of human beings a year, has always heretofore been answered by doctors with a contemptuous "No." Late, however, there seems to be a change of mind taking place.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

The relation of diet to kidney stones is very suggestive. Certain geographical areas have long been known as stone areas—lower Egypt, India and in this country Southern Florida and Southern California. The tendency in these regions is to eat a vegetable diet and to spare meats and fats, cutting off many vitamins. Higgins has produced stones in the kidneys experimentally in rats on a diet deficient in Vitamin A.

Statistics Show Progress
In countries where education in nutrition has received attention, it can be shown statistically that there is a marked reduction in the incidence of bladder stone. The figures of Thompson in England for the last two decades of the nineteenth century, as contrasted with those of July from 1915 to 1931 show that there was only a fourth as many cases seen in the later periods. Denos and Minet have shown the same thing in France. In Russia, on the contrary, where standards of living are low, the incidence of bladder stone in children is still high.

Twenty-one patients are reported from a large American clinic, who had "complete solution" of their kidney stones after being put on a course of treatment which included clearing up any infection in the kidneys, and maintaining an acid-ash diet with a high Vitamin

A content. The diet prescribed for those who have had surgical removal of stones has prevented recurrence. The acid-ash diet prevents the precipitation in the kidney pelvis of alkaline salts from which stones are formed. An acid-ash diet contains bread, corn, eggs, fish, meat, oatmeal and prunes.

The underweight person is thin for the simple reason that he does not know the meaning of the word appetite. He has to work just as hard to eat without an appetite as the overweight has to work not to eat with an appetite. Note that these vacation diets for underweight begin with an appetizer—fruit or thin soup, which here has its place in the dietary if anywhere.

Breakfast: Grapefruit; oatmeal with cream and sugar; hot biscuits with honey and butter; glass milk, 1/2 cream.

Mid-morning: Cottage cheese; toast.

Lunch: Bouillon; creamed chicken on toast; endive salad with French dressing; chocolate custard with whipped cream; 2 whole wheat muffins with butter; glass milk.

Mid-afternoon: Glass 1/2 milk and 1/2 cream.

Dinner: Two poached eggs on mashed potatoes; buttered lima beans; lettuce salad with dressing; entire wheat bread with butter; apple tart; coffee with cream.

Evening: Eggnog.

Approximate value—4,000 calories.

SYNOPSIS

THE CHARACTERS:
LINDA AVERY, receptionist at a New York models' agency, starts to rebuild her romance with RONALD STAFFORD, her childhood sweetheart, who has "swung his way to fame on a trumpet," but SARAH MARKLEY, wealthy glamor girl, is trying to capture Ronald for herself. Meanwhile ROBERT BARTON, young engineer, strikes up a friendship with Linda. He introduces her to TERRY ADAMS, publicity man, and Terry's sweetheart, CAROLINE PICKARD, who has been unable to do work.

YESTERDAY: Robert tells Linda the woman visiting him is Miss Nevada, a famous actress now growing old. She had been engaged to Robert's uncle, but since his death she tried to force herself on Robert. She discovers Linda and Robert together on the girl's balcony and tells Linda, "I'll know you . . . when we meet again." Next day Linda is to meet Ronnie for dinner.

CHAPTER NINE

LINDA FOUND Ronnie waiting for her in the Iridium room. The music was low and gentle, gay and inobtrusive. People looked happy. Mostly they were in two's. A man and a girl, a man and a girl.

Ronnie looked tired, but his eyes lighted with swift joy when she came toward him.

"You're the only nice thing about a devilish day," he said. "Linda, you're stunning!"

Then he forgot her clothes and studied her eyes.

"Still love me, my sweet?"

She nodded. "No decrease at all. Why?"

"Enough to marry me tonight, tomorrow, soon?"

This was what she had wanted him to say, but now that she heard the words she was afraid. There was not the assurance and strength in Ronnie's voice that she should be there. Still . . . he was tired. His eyes were meeting hers honestly and his face was serious. Yet she was aware of some other influence.

She glanced down at the table and noticed a small gold vanity case. It contained the initials "S. M." Sarah Markley. So Sarah had been here with Ronnie until a few minutes ago. All of the time that she had waited for the telephone to ring, he had been chatting with Sarah. Maybe it wasn't his fault, maybe it was. She didn't try to reason it out. She said instead: "Sarah didn't give you much time to call me, did she?"

The gray eyes twinkled and Ronnie's laughter was whole-hearted. Finally she joined him in it. "But she was here," she insisted. "And there I sat waiting for a ring, Ronnie, if I were still ten I'd box your ears."

He sobered and the weary look came back. "Wouldn't it be swell to be ten again? Linda, how do people get in such complications?"

She waited while the waiter put a tall lemonade in front of her. She sipped it slowly, then said:

"Is that the matter, Ronnie?"

He nodded ruefully. "Sarah's a good kid, but she doesn't know you can't grab off men like you do bracelets or furs. Nobody ever taught her. And why she should decide to add my scalp is beyond my limited reasoning. But she's been proposing and, golly, I never had to say 'no' to a girl before."

"But you said it?" Her eyes danced with laughter. So it was Sarah who was the pursuer. Life was still a smooth road.

"In every way I know, but she's giving me time. Linda, I always intended to marry you a-yway, when I got around to it, so let's make it soon." His eyes lost their quizzical look. "I love you, darling. It isn't news to you—but I do."

They found a hack, a horse-drawn, at the square across from the Plaza, and Ronnie told the driver to go through the park for an hour. There was no greenness in the land. Trees held back arms high and the ground was sodden. But somewhere a troubadour played a song of spring and the music floated down the paths.

"Well?" Ronnie asked, and kissed her.

Linda drew away. If he did that again her heart would crumble, her head would forget to send out directions, the year's waiting would be over. She loved him and he loved her, only—there was the Avery pride. When Ronnie put Sarah in her place, unmarried, love would have a better chance to succeed. Even now, though, she wondered at her own hesitation. She was afraid and didn't know why. Afraid for herself, afraid for Ronnie whom she adored.

entreated, overpowered her, then she would do as he wished. But if he hesitated—

"I'll climb without the Markley backing, my sweet, or I'm not much good. It's marriage, pronto. Oh, you darling idiot, don't you get it through your curly head that I love you?"

Always after Linda was to remember that ride. The moon came up and the early stars broke through and made the park a glimmering, silver Paradise. A taxicab radio sent a love song down the lanes and the old carriage moved slower and slower.

When Ronnie left Linda at the outer door of the old brick house, with a promise to call later in the evening, she started up the long steps singing under her breath.

Even when Rob wailed her at the bend in the stairs she did not pause. He belonged to another world. His words broke the spell.

"The prima donna act of last night won't be repeated. I talked some sense into the lady and it seemed to work. I apologize again." "It doesn't matter." It doesn't matter. Nothing matters. For I'm going to marry Ronnie! "I hope the actress puts on her other scenes on the stage instead of troubling you."

Caroline was busy in the kitchenette. The odor of broiling steak came from behind the screen that protected the culinary department's privacy.

"How pretty you look," she told Linda. "Something especially nice happened? I adore steak, and since you told me to take charge and get fat I'm obeying. I've an avocado salad and hot biscuits and broccoli with Hollandaise."

Linda ate, still wrapped in a glow. She slipped into a yellow crepe housecoat to wait for Ronnie's telephone call. She didn't expect it until nearly 12, for rehearsals were long affairs. When Caroline came in from a neighborhood errand, with the morning editions of the tabloids, she leaped through one of them with casual interest. Suddenly she sat upright and her face paled. She read a story, then re-read it.

The odor of perspiration is generally repulsive, but it has been known to take on the aroma of violets, pineapples and Russian leather.

Vanilla is tasteless. The enjoyment it gives comes from its odor. A person with a cold in the head cannot enjoy a vanilla-flavored food.

"WHERE FLOORCOVERING IS A SPECIALTY"

Possible Next First Lady Of Land Prefers To Remain In Background

Will she be the next First Lady?

By Malvina Stephenson
NEW YORK, July 8 — Tennessee-born Edith Wilk Willkie, who grew up on Indiana politics, may be "adopted" by the entire nation come next November.

And the wife of the Republican presidential nominee shares some of her husband's lucky confidence in their prospects. But she is naturally modest, almost shy, and has an appealing way.

Sometimes Mrs. Willkie lets it slip—about what she "will do" as the next First Lady, but quickly appends the qualifying "if".

Never an ambitious social or political figure, Mrs. Willkie has preferred a background, making a comfortable home for her husband and only son, Philip, a Princeton senior who failed to graduate last month.

But suddenly propelled into the spotlight, Mrs. Willkie knows how to hold her own and definitely can be counted an asset in her husband's political bid. Willkie advisors acted wisely in urging the little "misses" to make an early appearance at the Philadelphia convention.

Has Ready Answers
Under a heavy fire of press questions, marked by the confusion of flashing cameras, Mrs. Willkie always is ready with an answer and one that makes good copy. She has the knack for witty comebacks and clever phraseology.

But expect no personal thrusts, or even innuendoes, if Mrs. Willkie's "take-off" is any indication. Questions obviously directed at the current First Lady were gracefully hurdled by Mrs. Willkie.

Asked if she considered travel, writing, or speaking in the interest of social or political questions within the province of the First Lady, Mrs. Willkie responded simply, "Yes, if she can do it."

But obviously the feminine-appearing Mrs. Willkie, whom her husband calls a "ball of fluff," doesn't care to try her hand at columns or speaking junkets. She never made a formal speech in her life, and doesn't intend to. She lets her husband wear the family pants and do the "heavy" jobs.

"I married Mr. Willkie because I thought he was bigger than I, in every way," she explains proudly.

Small Statured
Of course, Mrs. Willkie is only five feet, two and one-half inches in her stocking feet and weighed 110 pounds "before the convention." She kept up a fast pace every day, but insisted on an inconspicuous spot to take in the sessions. But she couldn't keep the tally on her dramatic night because she lost her "spectacles."

Close beside Mrs. Willkie in these trying times was her old friend, Mary Sleeth, the plain-looking spinster, who was the Rushville, Ind., librarian when the candidate's wife was assistant.

Although Indiana may be counted Mrs. Willkie's home state, she was born in Nashville, Tenn., where her father was a construction contractor. When she was seven the family returned to Indiana.

She attended the University of Indiana and was a member of Kappa Alpha Theta. Although the two were students at the same time, the couple did not meet until several years later. She did know Paul V. McNutt there, however.

Strangely enough, Miss Wilk and Mr. Willkie both had very colorful and widely known campus nicknames. She was called "Billikan" Wilk and he "Win" Willkie, the latter a very prophetic label.

Worked In Libraries

Returning to Rushville, the former Edith Wilk got started in library work, thanks to Miss Seeth, who now manages the Willkie farm in Rush County, Ind. Later Mrs. Willkie was librarian at Elwood, Ind.

She met her future husband when the two were attendants at a wedding and friends were amused at the similarity of their names.

And the couple soon found other common ties. Mrs. Willkie's reading interest matched that of her husband, whose amazing fund of information has been demonstrated in his recent public appearances. At any rate, the two hit it off from the start and she soon agreed to change Wilk to Willkie.

While Willkie served as a soldier in the World war, his wife lived with her mother and sister-in-law in Washington, Mr. and Mrs. Miller Hamilton. When he returned the couple went to Akron, O., to make their home. A few years later found them in New York and Willkie was fast on the rise in his meteoric career.

Live Unostentatiously

Although having a large income the Willkies have never indulged in ostentatious living and have shunned the social glitter. Their seven-room New York apartment is modestly but tastefully furnished, something you might expect from a daughter of the middle west. There's simply nothing "modern" nor overdone. The dining room seats only about eight people and the library is one of the most popular spots in the place.

Mrs. Willkie herself, is particularly interested in art, especially portraits by the old Flemish painters. Her apartment is just across the street from the Metropolitan Art Museum and she frequently views exhibits.

Although Mrs. Willkie likes a husband on whose viewpoint she can rely, she still has a mind of her own. She belongs to the Presbyterian church and her husband and son, the Episcopalian. She's also a life-long Republican and is pretty certain that she "didn't" vote for Roosevelt in 1932.

Willkie can count on his wife to meet the backfire of the Old Guard in the G. O. P.

1930 Graduating Class Has Reunion Saturday Evening

The 1930 Class of Circleville High School held its 10 year reunion Saturday at the Pickaway Country Club with 15 members and several additional guests present. Fifty-three were graduated in this class.

Large vases of summer garden flowers were placed in the center and at either end of the long table where dinner was served at 7:30 p. m.

Fred Watts was the faculty member at the dinner.

Informal talks and reminiscing comprised the entertainment of the enjoyable evening.

The class members included Mrs. Peggy Courtright Blosser, Mrs. Mary Margaret Moore Mader, Mrs. Nina Cooper Thomas, Miss Harriett Mason, Miss Martha Virginia Mader, Miss Mary Mae Haswell, William Goeller, Miss Margaret Hunsicker, Linden Baughman, Wilbur Adkins, Edgar Clark, Leon Gordon of Circleville; Mrs. Olive Weaver Smith, Lancaster; Mrs. Elizabeth Cady Summers, Columbus and Edwin Haacker, Cleveland.

Among the guests were Miss Rita Howell, Miss Mary Guffcock, R. P. Summers, Columbus; Sam Thompson, Mrs. Cooper, Cleveland; Carl McClaugh, Zanesville and Mrs. Linden Baughman, Circleville.

Miss Hunsicker, Miss Mader, Mr. Baughman and Mr. Clark were responsible for the delightful reunion.

Miss Haswell, Mr. Adkins and Mr. Gordon will arrange plans for the next reunion which is scheduled for 1945.

Close beside Mrs. Wilkie in these trying times was her old friend, Mary Sleeth, the plain-looking spinster, who was the Rushville, Ind., librarian when the candidate's wife was assistant.

Although Indiana may be counted Mrs. Wilkie's home state, she was born in Nashville, Tenn., where her father was a construction contractor. When she was seven the family returned to Indiana.

She attended the University of Indiana and was a member of Kappa Alpha Theta. Although the two were students at the same urday at Greenup, Ky., Lloyd Smith, justice of the peace, reading the service.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Arledge of Pickaway Township entertained the couple at dinner Sunday, Miss Mary Arledge and Harold Wolfe of Circleville being additional guests.

DEAD MAN SUED FOR REFUSAL TO PAY MORTICIAN

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia—Alexander Kavapoulos, a wealthy merchant of a nearby town, has been sued for refusing to pay the costs of his own funeral.

After some weeks of serious sickness, Kavapoulos was declared officially dead by several physicians, who examined his body. The coffin with the body of the "dead" merchant was transported to a distant place, where it was to be buried. The funeral carriage had to pass a stony road and the coffin was repeatedly shaken from one side to the other. Suddenly the cover of the coffin was lifted and the head of the "dead" man appeared, looking surprised at the terrified procession which followed the carriage. He jumped out and showed himself much alive.

The undertaker presented his bill to the merchant, demanding payment for all costs involved in the "funeral." Kavapoulos refused to pay and a civil court has to decide this ticklish problem.

JARETZ OF CHICAGO WINS NATIONAL A. A. U. HONORS

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., July 8—Otto Jaretz of Chicago today was acclaimed America's leading aquatic star after he established a new record for the 110-yard free style and captured his second title in the finals of the 1940 national A. A. U. swimming and diving championships.

Jaretz annexed the crown by swimming the distance in 58.4 seconds. Paul Wolf of Los Angeles placed second when he crossed the line eight feet behind the Towers Club champion. Jaretz won the 220-yard free style in the record time of 2:13.1 in the opening day of the meet.

Another Chicago record-shatterer was Adolph Kiefer who won the 330-yard individual medley race and set an official record of 3:58.6 for the event. Kiefer had previously won the 110-yard backstroke title.

LAWSON LITTLE ONE UP ON NATIONAL OPEN Foe

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 8—Lawson Little, the National Open golf champ, was one up today over Ed Oliver, the Hornell, N. Y., pro, in their best out of five series at Williamsville Park Club being played as a consolation aftermath to the recent National Open in which Oliver was disqualified for starting his final round ahead of time.

Little finished the first match one up on Oliver. Both shot par for the 36 holes.

THE HEROES AND THE GOATS

Heroes—Joe Marty, Philadelphia outfielder, whose two homers in the nightcap gave the Phillies an even split in their doubleheader with the New York Giants; Ted Lyons, 39-year-old Chicago White Sox pitcher, who won a 3 to 1 pitchers' duel from 21-year-old Bob Feller of the Cleveland Indians.

Goats—Bill Lee, Chicago pitcher, who walked in the winning run in the eighth as the Cincinnati Reds defeated the Cubs; Whitlow Wyatt, Brooklyn pitcher, who lost a four-hitter by putting the winning run on base with a walk.

RED BIRDS DROP PAIR TO KASEYS, 10 TO 0, 7 TO 5

COLUMBUS, July 8—The Kansas City Blues, who whipped the Columbus Red Birds twice yesterday to maintain their first place standing, today had clinched the honor of staging the July 17 American Association All-Star game in Ruppert Stadium.

The Blues swept the three-game series by blanking the Red Birds 10 to 0 in the first tilt, and then staging a four run rally in the final frame of the seven-inning nightcap to win 7 to 5.

The Minneapolis Millers remained only a game behind the Blues by coming from behind in both games to nose out the Indianapolis Indians, 5 to 4 and 4 to 3. Indian Pitcher Johnny Wilson's balk in the tenth frame handed the Millers the first game.

Wes Flowers pitched three-hit ball to enable Louisville to shut out St. Paul 2 to 0 in the first game of their twin bill, but the Saints scored four runs in the final stanza to take the extra-inning nightcap, 6 to 2.

Toledo marked up a surprising double win over Milwaukee, winning the first one in the tenth stanza, 5 to 4, and taking the finale 4 to 3.

Cincinnati Regains Lead As Dodgers Lose To Bees

CHICAGO, July 8—The Cincinnati Reds scattered in all directions today after wresting first place in the National League from the Brooklyn Dodgers for the seventh time this season, whipping the Chicago Cubs, 4 to 3, while the Dodgers were dropping a pair of close ones to Boston.

Manager Deacon McKechnie and four of his lads—Walters, Derringer, Lombardi and McCormick—went to St. Louis for the All-star Game tomorrow. Another group went to Indianapolis for an exhibition tilt with Indians. Others journeyed to their homes, for the league race is over until Thursday night, when the Reds come home for a crucial three-game series with the durable Dodgers.

Faced by Ival Goodman, who drove in three counters with his homer and three singles, the Reds yesterday ran their victory string to five straight before 23,193 fans. They scored the winning run in the eighth after two were out. A walk, a single and an error filled the bags, and then Big Bill Lee forced in the winning tally when he walked Morrie Arnovich.

Rookie Johnny Hutchings started his first game for the Reds, but was relieved in the sixth after filling the bases. Schofield took over for the rest of the inning, with Joe Beggs coming to the mound in the seventh to mark up his fifth win, all in relief roles.

NEW YORK, July 8—They're revising the standings of the Major League club these warm July days as often and as quickly as the boundary lines on an European map.

Yesterday no less than six clubs, including the league leaders in both races, changed positions, indicating that setting the pace at this early date requires a number of good breaks, a strong nervous system and plenty of good baseball.

For example, the Brooklyn Dodgers won seven consecutive games, then dropped two tough one-run decisions, which caused them to be evicted from the pressure point—first place—in the senior circuit.

Although approximately 1,000 fervid Flatbush fans traveled by special train to Boston to cheer their heroes on, the Durocher Dandies ran into a school of good pitching and dropped both ends of a doubleheader to the Bees, 1 to 0 and 2 to 1. Manuel Salvo, a former Giant, whitewashed the Dodgers in the opener and Bill Posedel and Dick Coffman, ganged up on them in the afterpiece.

While this was taking place, the Cincinnati Reds were defeating the Chicago Cubs, 4 to 3, to move back into the lead. Big Bill Lee was charged with his eleventh defeat of the year when he walked Morrie Arnovich in the eighth to force in the winning score.

Pirates Win Double

The "blow hot, blow cold" Pittsburgh Pirates grabbed their second doubleheader in as many days from St. Louis to trade sixth place for fifth with the Cardinals. Pittsburgh won 7 to 6 and 4 to 1. Philadelphia and New York ended the afternoon even-Stephen, the Giants winning the first game of a twin-bill, 6 to 4 and the Phillies the second, 4 to 2.

The ageless Ted Lyons, the Chicago White Sox "Sunday" hurler, bested youthful Bob Feller in a pitchers' battle and set down the

SELLOUT LOOMS FOR CONTEST OF ALL-STAR NINES

Cronin, McKechnie To Lead Competitors; Helmets To Be Considered?

By Robert Hereford

ST. LOUIS, July 8—St. Louis, the western outpost of Major League baseball, occupied the baseball spotlight today as it awaited arrival of the game's most scintillating stars, who will play tomorrow in the eighth annual all-star game.

Club owners of the two major leagues also were converging on the city of meetings. American League moguls will confer during the afternoon and the National League club owners will meet tonight.

A sell-out crowd appeared in prospect for the all-star spectacle. Sportsman Park, scene of this year's contest, has a seating capacity of 33,000. Officials of the St. Louis Cardinals, the host ball club, announced today that all grandstand seats have been sold, and that 2,000 of the 3,000 reserved seats also have been sold.

Joe Cronin, manager of the Boston Red Sox, will lead the favored American League team in the junior circuit's for its sixth all-star win. Bill McKechnie, pilot of the Cincinnati Reds, will handle the National League, seeking their third victory in the series.

Others Interested . . . . . BF

While announcement of the ticket sale showed that St. Louis fans who usually don't go for baseball in large doses, are definitely all-star game conscious, the advance sale has by no means been strictly local. The Cardinals office revealed many requests for reservations had been received from the Far West, and that reservations have been made by fans in almost every state of the union.

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia—

Alexander Kavadiopoulos, a wealthy merchant of a nearby town, has been sued for refusing to pay the costs of his own funeral.

After some weeks of serious sickness, Kavadiopoulos was declared officially dead by several physicians, who examined his body.

The coffin with the body of the "dead" merchant was transported to a distant place, where it was to be buried. The funeral carriage had to pass a stony road and the coffin was repeatedly shaken from one side to the other.

Suddenly the cover of the coffin was lifted and the head of the "dead" man appeared, looking surprisedly at the terrified procession which followed the carriage. He jumped out and showed himself much alive.

The undertaker presented his bill to the merchant, demanding payment for all costs involved in the "funeral". Kavadiopoulos refused to pay and a civil court has to decide this ticklish problem.

JARETZ OF CHICAGO WINS NATIONAL A. A. U. HONORS

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., July 8—

Otto Jaretz of Chicago today was acclaimed America's leading aquatic star after he established a new record for the 110-yard free style and captured his second title in the finals of the 1940

national A.A.U. swimming and diving championships.

Jaretz annexed the crown by swimming the distance in 58.4

seconds. Paul Wolf of Los Angeles placed second when he crossed the line eight feet behind the Towers

Club champion. Jaretz won the 220-yard free style in the record time of 2:13.1 in the opening day of the meet.

Another Chicago record-shatter was Adolph Kiefer who won the 330-yard individual medley race and set an official record of 3:58.6 for the event. Kiefer had previously won the 110-yard backstroke title.

Lawson Little, the National Open

golf champ, was one up today

AAA Outlines Crop Loan For Farmers Of District

Boggs Indicates Much Of Crop To Be Stored By Pickaway Growers

RATES ARE ARRANGED

Demand Angle Inserted As World Conditions Hold Federal Attention

Farmers who have planted wheat in their 1940 wheat acreage allotment in the 1940 AAA program will be eligible for wheat loans amounting to 74 cents a bushel for grade No. 2 wheat which is stored on the farm or shipped from elevators located in Pickaway County, County AAA Chairman John Boggs pointed out Monday in a letter to Pickaway County wheat growers.

Wheat shipped from points outside the county will take the loan rates of the county in which the elevator is located, Chairman Boggs said.

With wheat prices quoted at around 70 cents a bushel and with heavy losses throughout the county due to blight, a high percentage of those farmers signed with the AAA are expected to take advantage of the government wheat loans. Conservation officers have announced that the number of farmers asking for loans is considerably greater than had been anticipated.

Seven cents a bushel will be paid to farmers who store their wheat on the farm until the maturity of the ten month note, but wheat must be in the bin for at least 30 days before a sample can be taken and a loan secured.

Warehouses Important

Those farmers who have no adequate place to store wheat may ship it to an approved warehouse. In this case, farmers will receive a loan on the warehouse receipt issued by the warehouseman. Warehouse loans mature in eight months or April 30, 1941.

For either type of loan the interest rate will be 3 percent, figured on the actual time the loan is in force. If the market value of wheat at the maturity date of the loan is below the loan value, the delivery of wheat satisfies the note and no interest will be charged. But if the price of wheat advances above the loan value, farmers may pay off the note at the face value plus interest and realize the profit made by having stored their wheat.

Subject to Demand Call

All loans will be made subject to call on demand, at which time producers may pay off the loan plus interest, or deliver the wheat to the Commodity Credit Corporation. No loans are expected to be called in before the maturity date, but in view of the unsettled world market, the corporation has placed the loans on a demand basis to keep the program in a flexible condition.

Loan values for other grades of wheat are No. 1, 75 cents; No. 3, 72 cents; No. 4, 68 cents; and No. 5, 66 cents.

Farmers interested in securing loans may contact the county AAA office or their local elevators.

STARS SAY—

For Monday, July 8

MONDAY'S ASTROLOGICAL forecast is for very active conditions in the social, domestic, artistic or affectional relations. In the latter, there may arise a surprising situation, probably sensational, spectacular or unconventional.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of conflicting situations with opportunity for lucrative connections with large groups, political or fraternal, but with emotional or romantic experiences, sensational or irregular. A child born on this day may be shrewd, subtle and versatile, but erratic, impulsive and unconventional. It will be goodhearted and sociable as well as romantic.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler

Dr. Francis E. Townsend

Rep. John J. O'Connor

THESE four men may become the nucleus of an anti-third term drive within the Democratic party, or, if that fails, they may attempt to organize a third party. CIO Chief John L. Lewis and Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana both appeared before the national convention of Dr. Francis E. Townsend's old age pension group and warned that they may try to form a third party if President Roosevelt is renominated by the Democratic national convention. Representative John J. O'Connor of New York, target of an attempted White House "purge" in 1938, has declared that a rump convention might be held simultaneously with the Democratic convention if President Roosevelt is nominated.

WILLKIE HEADS FOUR AUTOISTS FOR CAPITAL TO VIOLATING CITY TALK WITH AIDE STATUTES CITED

NEW YORK, July 8—Wendell L. Willkie headed for Washington by air today to talk with Senator Charles L. McNary, his running mate in the coming election, before releasing the names of the new chairman of the Republican National Committee, the campaign chairman, and the 15 members of the new executive committee.

Willkie's plan is to talk with McNary today, hold a final meeting with the sub-committee of the national committee tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock, and release the names just before leaving for Colorado around noon for a two or three week vacation.

The fact that the nominee expects no more than a three-hour session with the committee, indicates that all selections have been made.

Theories as to the campaign setup are almost as numerous as the hairs on the candidate's head but these are the favorites: 1. That Representative Joe Martin of Massachusetts will be Willkie's campaign manager and Samuel F. Pryor, Jr., national committeeman from Connecticut, will be chairman of the committee. This theory has it that Pryor will also handle the campaign while congress remains in session with Martin the nominal manager.

2. That Pryor will be the campaign manager and John D. M. Hamilton will continue as chairman of the national committee. This theory recognizes the fact that Hamilton has strong support in the national committee and also that under Willkie's campaign plans, his personal campaign manager will actually top the committee's man and coordinate the political management with the amateur-volunteer support.

military organization that can deal with a surprise raiding force. The U. S. Army does not have one complete division assembled at any training post while European powers "maintained peace time armies of 30 to 50 divisions," Drew charged.

NAZI REVOLUTION

When Nazi troops marched into Poland, September 1, 1939, Adolf Berle, Assistant Secretary of State and Roosevelt brain truster, remarked: "This is the beginning of the world revolution."

The war—or revolution—has now been in progress for ten months and every report coming back from Germany indicates the truth of Berle's words.

For what most people do not realize about Germany is that the Nazis are fighting with a crusading revolutionary fervor. They are staging a social revolution. Their redistribution of wealth in Germany makes Stalin's look sick.

Today in Germany the free business man has almost vanished. He is working for the Government. All his raw materials come from the Government. His credit is arranged by the Government. Exchange is regulated by the Government, and prices are manipulated almost daily by the Government.

Today in Germany also, the industrialist who owns an automobile does not dare to drive it to work. It would be taken away from him, and he would be hissed off the streets. Only Nazi officials ride in cars. Others ride bicycles.

Real fact is that Germany has borrowed Karl Marx back from Russia and made it work.

BOMB PLOTS

Lost in the shuffle of war news was what happened to the Christian Front members, recently acquitted and released after a trial in which they were charged with conspiring to overthrow the Government of the United States.

After they were released, one of the first things some of them did was to go to the clerk of the court in Brooklyn and demand return of their guns.

Immediately thereafter several bomb plots were unearthed in New York. Most of the bombs were crudely manufactured and failed to explode. The papers reported two that went off, but gave the others no publicity.

However, there was no question but that the bomb epidemic resulted from the feeling on the part of various subversive elements that the acquittal of the Christian Fronters gave them immunity.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Approximately one-third of the 1,000 delegates at the GOP convention were World War veterans and all the candidates had vets playing leading roles in their campaigns. . . . Harry Colmer of Kansas, former American Legion Commander, was active for Willkie, and Ben Doris of Oregon, one of the three remaining Legion "king makers", worked for Taft. . . . Assisting Doris was chunky little Karl Kitchen of Cleveland, who managed the only Legion convention that didn't go in the red. . . .

TWO CHICAGO DEMOCRATIC CHIEFS SAVED FROM LAKE

LAC DU FLAMBEAU, Wis., July 8—Two prominent Illinois Democratic officials were reported to be recuperating satisfactorily today from shock and exposure suffered when they were rescued Saturday night from stormy Crawling Stone Lake. The men rescued were John J. Hallihan, Illinois director of education and registration, and Arthur O'Brien, secretary to Gov. Henry Horner of Illinois.

A third member of the party, whose boat was swamped and sank almost a mile from shore, Martin J. O'Brien, 68, public administrator of Cook County (Chicago), died of a heart attack shortly after he had been brought ashore.

All three men were brought to the beach by 18-year-old John St. Germaine, an Indian guide, who was also in the boat. St. Germaine swam back and forth for two hours to complete the rescues.

JUDGE MACK REFUSES TO COMMENT ON HIS PART IN DEMOCRATIC CONFAB

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., July 8—Former Judge John E. Mack of Poughkeepsie today declined comment on reports that he is slated to nominate President Roosevelt for a third term at the National Democratic convention in Chicago next week.

Mack, often called Mr. Roosevelt's "political godfather" nominated FDR for the presidency at the 1932 and 1936 conventions. He referred all questions concerning 1940 to the President.

Senator Rush Holt, buck-toothed West Virginia anti-New Deal Democrat, recently defeated for renomination, is quietly aiding the campaign of Tom Sweeney, the Republican nominee. . . . At the Philadelphia convention hard-hitting Frank Waltman, GOP press director and former Washington newsman, had a hard time staying with the bigwigs. Waltman itched to get down in the press rows with his former colleagues. . . . State Department telephone girls have never been busier than they are now, even in the hectic days of last September. . . . Coast Guard officials are receiving complaints from sleepy-eyed summer residents that the new blare of coastal fog horns is unbearable.

BIG BARN BURNS ON KIRK FARM

Loss In Sunday Midnight Blaze Estimated At $10,000

A barn on the McKinley Kirkpatrick farm, three miles east of New Holland, caught fire and burned at midnight Sunday with an estimated damage of nearly $10,000. The barn alone, built in 1937, was valued at $6,000.

Eugene Bush, a neighbor, noticed the fire in the barn shortly after midnight and notified John Livesay, the tenant, who summoned the New Holland fire department.

Besides total loss of the barn, between 300 and 400 bushels of corn and nearly 400 bales of hay were destroyed. The barn contained no stock or new hay.

A complete set of farming tools was also reported destroyed with the exception of a mower, which was outside the barn. No damage was done to other buildings.

The cause of the fire was undetermined.

Some of our people may seem a little "hysterical" in their zeal for national defense, but at least they're not sleep-walking the way the French and British were until lately.

SCHOOL MEN INVITED TO TALK NATIONAL DEFENSE

School administrators in Pickaway County are among the 1,500 men and women invited to a vocational and technical conference Thursday at 10:30 a. m., at Ohio State University.

Sponsored by the university, the state department of education, and Phi Delta Kappa, education fraternity, the meeting will be devoted to a discussion of the use of school and college facilities in meeting the need of the national defense program for additional technical training of youth. Congress has passed a $70,000,000 appropriation for this type of training, and Ohio has requested a part of this fund for immediate use.

AAA Outlines Crop Loan For Farmers Of District

Boggs Indicates Much Of Crop To Be Stored By Pickaway Growers

RATES ARE ARRANGED

Demand Angle Inserted As World Conditions Hold Federal Attention

Farmers who have planted wheat in their 1940 wheat acreage allotment in the 1940 AAA program will be eligible for wheat loans amounting to 74 cents a bushel for grade No. 2 wheat which is stored on the farm or shipped from elevators located in Pickaway County, County AAA Chairman John Boggs pointed out Monday in a letter to Pickaway County wheat growers.

Wheat shipped from points outside the county will take the loan rates of the county in which the elevator is located, Chairman Boggs said.

With wheat prices quoted at around 70 cents a bushel and with heavy losses throughout the county due to blight, a high percentage of those farmers signed with the AAA are expected to take advantage of the government wheat loans. Conservation officers have announced that the number of farmers asking for loans is considerably greater than had been anticipated.

Seven cents a bushel will be paid to farmers who store their wheat on the farm until the maturity of the ten month note, but wheat must be in the bin for at least 30 days before a sample can be taken and a loan secured.

Warehouses Important

Those farmers who have no adequate place to store wheat may ship it to an approved warehouse. In this case, farmers will receive a loan on the warehouse receipt issued by the warehouseman. Warehouse loans mature in eight months or April 30, 1941.

For either type of loan the interest rate will be 3 percent, figured on the actual time the loan is in force. If the market value of wheat at the maturity date of the loan is below the loan value, the delivery of wheat satisfies the note and no interest will be charged. But if the price of wheat advances above the loan value, farmers may pay off the note at the face value plus interest and realize the profit made by having stored their wheat.

Subject to Demand Call

All loans will be made subject to call on demand, at which time producers may pay off the loan plus interest, or deliver the wheat to the Commodity Credit Corporation. No loans are expected to be called in before the maturity date, but in view of the unsettled world market, the corporation has placed the loans on a demand basis to keep the program in a flexible condition.

Loan values for other grades of wheat are No. 1, 75 cents; No. 3, 72 cents; No. 4, 68 cents; and No. 5, 66 cents.

Farmers interested in securing loans may contact the county AAA office or their local elevators.

STARS SAY—

For Monday, July 8

MONDAY'S ASTROLOGICAL forecast is for very active conditions in the social, domestic, artistic or affectional relations. In the latter, there may arise a surprising situation, probably sensational, spectacular or unconventional.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of conflicting situations with opportunity for lucrative connections with large groups, political or fraternal, but with emotional or romantic experiences, sensational or irregular.

A child born on this day may be shrewd, subtle and versatile, but erratic, impulsive and unconventional. It will be goodhearted and sociable as well as romantic.

John L. Lewis

Senator Burton K. Wheeler

Dr. Francis E. Townsend

Rep. John J. O'Connor

THESE four men may become the nucleus of an anti-third term drive within the Democratic party, or, if that fails, they may attempt to organize a third party. CIO Chief John L. Lewis and Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana both appeared before the national convention of Dr. Francis E. Townsend's old age pension group and warned that they may try to form a third party if President Roosevelt is renominated by the Democratic national convention. Representative John J. O'Connor of New York, target of an attempted White House "purge" in 1938, has declared that a rump convention might be held simultaneously with the Democratic convention if President Roosevelt is nominated.

WILLKIE HEADS FOUR AUTOISTS FOR CAPITAL TO TALK WITH AIDE VIOLATING CITY STATUTES CITED

NEW YORK, July 8 — Wendell L. Willkie headed for Washington by air today to talk with Senator Charles L. McNary, his running mate in the coming election, before releasing the names of the new chairman of the Republican National Committee, the campaign chairman, and the 15 members of the new executive committee.

Willkie's plan is to talk with McNary today, hold a final meeting with the sub-committee of the national committee tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock, and release the names just before leaving for Colorado around noon for a two or three week vacation.

The fact that the nominee expects no more than a three-hour session with the committee, indicates that all selections have been made.

Theories as to the campaign setup are almost as numerous as the hairs on the candidate's head but these are the favorites:

1. That Representative Joe Martin of Massachusetts will be Willkie's campaign manager and Samuel F. Pryor, Jr., national committeeman from Connecticut, will be chairman of the committee. This theory has it that Pryor will also handle the campaign while congress remains in session with Martin the nominal manager.

2. That Pryor will be the campaign manager and John D. M. Hamilton will continue as chairman of the national committee. This theory recognizes the fact that Hamilton has strong support in the national committee and also that under Willkie's campaign plans, his personal campaign manager will actually top the committee's man and coordinate the political management with the amateur-volunteer support.

military organization that can deal with a surprise raiding force. The U. S. Army does not have one complete division assembled at any training post while European powers "maintained peace time armies of 30 to 50 divisions," Drew charged.

NAZI REVOLUTION

When Nazi troops marched into Poland, September 1, 1939, Adolf Berle, Assistant Secretary of State and Roosevelt brain truster, remarked: "This is the beginning of the world revolution."

The war—or revolution — has now been in progress for ten months and every report coming back from Germany indicates the truth of Berle's words.

For what most people do not realize about Germany is that the Nazis are fighting with a crusading revolutionary fervor. They are staging a social revolution. Their redistribution of wealth in Germany makes Stalin's look sick.

Today in Germany the free business man has almost vanished. He is working for the Government. All his raw materials come from the Government. His credit is arranged by the Government. Exchange is regulated by the Government, and prices are manipulated almost daily by the Government.

Today in Germany also, the industrialist who owns an automobile does not dare to drive it to work. It would be taken away from him, and he would be hissed off the streets. Only Nazi officials ride in cars. Others ride bicycles.

Real fact is that Germany has borrowed Karl Marx back from Russia and made it work.

BOMB PLOTS

Lost in the shuffle of war news was what happened to the Christian Front members, recently acquitted and released after a trial in which they were charged with conspiring to overthrow the Government of the United States.

After they were released, one of the first things some of them did was to go to the clerk of the court in Brooklyn and demand return of their guns.

Immediately thereafter several bomb plots were unearthed in New York. Most of the bombs were crudely manufactured and failed to explode. The papers reported two that went off, but gave the others no publicity.

However, there was no question but that the bomb epidemic resulted from the feeling on the part of various subversive elements that the acquittal of the Christian Fronters gave them immunity.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Approximately one-third of the 1,000 delegates at the GOP convention were World War veterans and all the candidates had vets playing leading roles in their campaigns. . . . Harry Colmer of Kansas, former American Legion Commander, was active for Willkie, and Ben Doris of Oregon, one of the three remaining Legion "king makers", worked for Taft. . . . Assisting Doris was chunky little Karl Kitchen of Cleveland, who managed the only Legion convention that didn't go in the red. . . .

LINER WASHINGTON ON JOURNEY TO HOME PORT

GALWAY, Eire, July 8—Carrying almost 1,600 American refugees from Europe's war zones, the United States liner Washington was enroute for New York today.

Just before sailing time a cache of pistols was found aboard the vessel. The weapons were turned over to the captain, who ordered a search for possible bombs or additional firearms. The sailing was delayed almost an hour.

BALLARD "FAIR"

"Fair" was the report from Mercy Hospital, Columbus, Monday concerning the condition of Harland J. Ballard of Columbus, wounded in the abdomen Thursday night in an Ashville shooting affray. Ballard, allegedly armed with an army pistol, started to shoot at Ashville deputy marshals during a chase and was injured in the exchange of shots.

TWO CHICAGO DEMOCRATIC CHIEFS SAVED FROM LAKE

LAC DU FLAMBEAU, Wis., July 8—Two prominent Illinois Democratic officials were reported to be recuperating satisfactorily today from shock and exposure suffered when they were rescued Saturday night from stormy Crawling Stone Lake. The men rescued were John J. Hallihan, Illinois director of education and registration, and Arthur O'Brien, secretary to Gov. Henry Horner of Illinois.

A third member of the party, whose boat was swamped and sank almost a mile from shore, Martin J. O'Brien, 68, public administrator of Cook County (Chicago), died of a heart attack shortly after he had been brought ashore.

All three men were brought to the beach by 18-year-old John St. Germaine, an Indian guide, who was also in the boat. St. Germaine swam back and forth for two hours to complete the rescue.

JUDGE MACK REFUSES TO COMMENT ON HIS PART IN DEMOCRATIC CONFAB

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., July 8—Former Judge John E. Mack of Poughkeepsie today declined comment on reports that he is slated to nominate President Roosevelt for a third term at the National Democratic convention in Chicago next week.

Mack, often called Mr. Roosevelt's "political godfather" nominated FDR for the presidency at the 1932 and 1936 conventions. He referred all questions concerning 1940 to the President.

Senator Rush Holt, buck-toothed West Virginia anti-New Deal Democrat, recently defeated for renomination, is quietly aiding the campaign of Tom Sweeney, the Republican nominee. . . . At the Philadelphia convention hard-hitting Frank W. Wadsworth, GOP press director and former Washington newsman, had a hard time staying with the bigwigs. Wadsworth itched to get down in the press rows with his former colleagues. . . . State Department telephone girls have never been busier than they are now, even in the hectic days of last September. . . . Coast Guard officials are receiving complaints from sleepy-eyed summer residents that the new blare of coastal fog horns is unbearable.

BIG BARN BURNS ON KIRK FARM

Loss In Sunday Midnight Blaze Estimated At $10,000

A barn on the McKinley Kirkpatrick farm, three miles east of New Holland, caught fire and burned at midnight Sunday with an estimated damage of nearly $10,000. The barn alone, built in 1937, was valued at $6,000.

Eugene Bush, a neighbor, noticed the fire in the barn shortly after midnight and notified John Livesay, the tenant, who summoned the New Holland fire department.

Besides total loss of the barn, between 300 and 400 bushels of corn and nearly 400 bales of hay were destroyed. The barn contained no stock or new hay.

A complete set of farming tools was also reported destroyed with the exception of a mower, which was outside the barn. No damage was done to other buildings.

The cause of the fire was undetermined.

Some of our people may seem a little "hysterical" in their zeal for national defense, but at least they're not sleep-walking the way the French and British were until lately.

SCHOOL MEN INVITED TO TALK NATIONAL DEFENSE

School administrators in Pickaway County are among the 1,500 men and women invited to a vocational and technical conference Thursday at 10:30 a. m., at Ohio State University.

Sponsored by the university, the state department of education, and Phi Delta Kappa, education fraternity, the meeting will be devoted to a discussion of the use of school and college facilities in meeting the need of the national defense program for additional technical training of youth.

Congress has passed a $70,000,000 appropriation for this type of training, and Ohio has requested a part of this fund for immediate use.
